Earl Winterton Taken Into Cabinet to Act as Spokesman in House

APPOINTMENT ANSWERS OPPOSITION DEMANDS

LONDON, March 11 (CP).—The Government tonight announced a reorganization of the Air Ministry. Four major positions were created. Earl Winterton was taken into the Cabinet to act as the Air Ministry's spokesman in the House of Commons. Sir Donald Banks was named Permanent Under-Secretary of State for Air. W. P. Hildred became Deputy Director-General of Civil Aviation. C. J. Stewart was named Director of Civil Research and Production.

Lord Winterton's appointment answered demands by Liberals and Labor for the resignation of Air Secretary Viscount Swinton on the grounds that the Minister should be a member of the House of Commons. Lord Swinton is a member of the House of Lords.

WHITNEY FACES SECOND CHARGE

Accused of Taking Unlawfully $103,000 From Yacht Club Box

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP).—Aristocratic Richard Whitney, whose very name had been a symbol for Wall Street probity, stood twice charged with theft tonight as the manifold investigations of the spectacular collapse of his firm opened a great fiscal scandal.

Whitney, socially impeccable, five times president of the New York Stock Exchange, the erstwhile "Morgan broker" through whom many of the orders of the mighty J. P. Morgan Company were executed, surrendered in mid-afternoon to State Attorney-General John J. Bennet, Jr., upon a second grand larceny complaint.

The maximum penalty under that charge is ten years.

ARREST ORDERED

His arrest had been ordered a few minutes before, after the testimony of Commander William A. W. Stewart, of the exclusive New York Yacht Club, long a friend, that Whitney, in addition to all the other collections charged against him, "unlawfully" had taken $103,000 in club bonds from a safety deposit box

Already, he was under grand larceny indictment obtained by Thomas E. Dewey, the New York County (Manhattan) district attorney, for the alleged misappropriation of some $105,000 from a family trust fund set up by his father-in-law for the benefit of Mrs. Whitney; her sister, Mrs. Mary Sheldon Murphy; his alma mater, Harvard University, and St. Paul's School of Concord, N.H.

Dr. Norman Bethune, of Montreal, and Miss Jane Ewen, of Vancouver, Reported Missing From Hankow—Cannot Be Traced

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP).—A wireless dispatch to The New York Times today from Hankow, China, stated Dr. Norman Bethune, Montreal surgeon, and Miss Jane Ewen, a nurse of Vancouver, B.C., are missing and "it is feared they were killed."

The dispatch from the temporary capital of China stated inquiries throughout the Communist Eighth Route Army, in Shansi Province, failed to trace the surgeon and nurse, who left Hankow two weeks ago to do army medical work.

FEARED ARE KILLED

"The Canadians were scheduled to arrive at Linfen about the time the Japanese captured the city," the dispatch said, "and it is feared they were killed."

Dr. Charles Parsons, of Kingston, N.Y., who accompanied them to China, returned to the United States, the dispatch added.

APPEALING TO PRIVY COUNCIL

Alberta Government to Take References to London—Ottawa to Co-operate

EDMONTON, Jan. 11 (CP).—Decision to carry the fight on constitutional questions and three pieces of legislation to the Privy Council was announced today by Premier Aberhart, of Alberta. At Ottawa it was announced that the Dominion Government would bear the expense of printing the case and in other ways facilitate the appeal.

The appeals, announced by Mr. Aberhart in a telegram to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, will cover the same references as made to the Supreme Court of Canada and upon which judgments were handed down on March 4.

SUPREME COURT OPINION

The Supreme Court of Canada upheld the right of Federal disallowance of provincial legislation and the right of a lieutenant-governor to reserve assent on provincial legislation for the signification of the pleasure of the Governor-General.

The court also declared three pieces of Alberta legislation unconstitutional. They were bills to regulate credit, increase taxation on banks and affect the press

ON SAME QUESTIONS

Premier Aberhart said the appeals to the Privy Council would be on the same two constitutional questions and three pieces of legislation and that every effort would be made to have the Privy Council hearing expedited.

Whether the Privy Council would consider the Alberta Social Credit Act validity was indefinite. Although not in the reference to the Supreme Court of Canada, the court declared the act was unconstitutional.

WAITING ONLY ALTERATION IN CONSTITUTION

Prime Minister Mackenzie King Ready to Introduce Unemployment Bill

NO DISBURSEMENTS BY THE PROVINCES

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King plans to introduce the Government's unemployment insurance measure as soon as the necessary constitutional amendment has been obtained, according to further correspondence with the provinces on this subject tabled in the House of Commons today.

No intimation was given, however, of when it is intended to move the necessary joint address of the Commons and Senate asking the United Kingdom Parliament to amend the British North America Act so as to place unemployment under Federal jurisdiction.

Letters tabled by the Prime Minister today were addressed to Premiers Aberhart of Alberta, Pattullo of British Columbia, Bracken of Manitoba, Macdonald of Nova Scotia, Campbell of Prince Edward Island and Patterson of Saskatchewan.

HAVE APPROVED

All these provinces except Alberta have approved the proposa to obtain the necessary constitutional amendment so that the Federal Government may enact and administer a national, contributory unemployment scheme. Ontario has also approved, but Quebec and New Brunswick are not yet committed.

Copies of the draft constitutional amendment were forwarded to Premiers and today's letters were acknowledgement of the Provincial Premiers' replies. Previous correspondence was tabled nearly a month ago.

Premier Aberhart replied questioning the need for a constitutional amendment, citing the Old Age Pensions Act as one that was put

"Victoria" Picture Stolen by Gunmen

DUBLIN, March 11 (AP).—Three gunmen entered a motion picture theatre today and stole the film "Victoria the Great" a few hours before it was scheduled to have its Irish premiere. One of the trio rode off with the film on a bicycle. The other two also escaped. They were believed to be Irish Republicans intent on destroying the complimentary depiction of Queen Victoria's life.

Colwood Golfer Defeats Seattle Star in Men's Open Final as Play Continues in Empress Tournament—Other Finals Today

SHOOTING hole after hole in par figures, Art Christopher, member of the Colwood Golf Club, came through with a sensational victory over Ralph Whaley, long-hitting shotmaker from the Broadmoor Club in Seattle, in the eighteen-hole final in the men's open yesterday afternoon in the tenth Empress Winter tournament, 2 and 1. Christopher parred every hole from the third to the seventeenth, where the match ended, and therefore proved too steady for the veteran Seattle club swinger. Despite the heavy rain, the first inclement weather during the entire week, a fair-sized gallery trekked along behind the players. Most of the crowd were sheltered under large umbrellas.

Threat of Invasion Forces Von Schuschnigg to Resign; Nazis in Control at Vienna

Troops Penetrate Austria

As the Austrian Government yesterday bowed to demands for German domination in Austrian affairs, German troops were reported to have crossed the frontier, and motorized units were said to have arrived at Linz, stronghold of the Austrian Nazis, forty miles from the border.

Bloodless Revolution Converts Nation Into Nazified State as German Troops Are Reported to Have Crossed Frontier—Jubilant Demonstrations Mark Conquest of Hitler

New Chancellor Is Named and Approved Cabinet Takes Office

VIENNA, March 12 (AP).—German troops moved toward Vienna in the early morning hours today to back up Nazification of the Austrian State, accomplished in bloodless revolution by Chancellor Von Schuschnigg's capitulation to Germany's Fuehrer Hitler.

The troops, numbering about 1,000 men in trucks, expected to reach the capital at noon. They carried several pieces of light artillery, the gendarmerie commandant at Schoerding on the Bavarian border told the Associated Press by telephone.

They met no resistance, and were heading first for Linz, where Nazis prepared an enthusiastic welcome. From there they were to proceed quickly to Vienna.

GIVES UP FIVE-YEAR FIGHT

Faced by a German ultimatum threatening armed invasion unless the Government were reorganized as Hitler wished, the Government gave up its five-year fight against the German Fuehrer. The bloodless revolution came after two days of violence throughout Austria. It was accomplished in eight hours.

Swept out of office by Germany's demands was Von Schuschnigg, who had fought to preserve Austrian independence in the old course of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, who was assassinated in a Nazi putsch on July 25, 1934.

Succeeding him as Chancellor and Austria's man of the hour was Austria's Nazi leader, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, political friend of Hitler. Seyss-Inquart immediately formed a new Cabinet, all but two of whom were Nazis. Apparently Wilhelm Miklas still was President.

JUBILANT DEMONSTRATIONS

The Government radio told Vienna and other Austrian cities—where Nazis went wild in jubilant demonstrations—that Seyss-Inquart had been appointed by Miklas. But the President, who through his years in office had supported Von Schuschnigg, made no announcement to the Austrian people. Also swept out of office was another leader of the old regime—Mayor Richard Schmitz, of Vienna. His city staged a demonstration that was probably without precedent.

Crowds who heard radio announcements that German troops were on their way into Austria stampeded through the streets. Swastikas appeared by the thousands. All Vienna seemed to be shouting: "Heil Hitler!"

Schuschnigg himself, who yesterday called out 100,000 recruits and 30,000 gendarmes to supplement his regular army of 70,000 in the face of German troop mobilization, told Austria of Germany's ultimatum.

In an address last night he declared that "we are not minded at any price to shed German blood and ordered his troops to withdraw "in the case of invasion" by German forces.

DRASTIC ULTIMATUM

The ultimatum set a time limit in which the President had to appoint a Chancellor and Government "according to the dictates of the German Reich." It said that unless this were done within a few hours, German troops would charge across the border.

Strong Protest Sent to Berlin By Two Powers

British and French Ambassadors Inform German Government Its Move in Austria Bound to Produce Gravest Reactions—Emergency Cabinet Meeting Held in London This Morning

LONDON, March 11 (CP).—Great Britain and France tonight instructed their Ambassadors to Berlin to protest in "the strongest possible terms" against "use of coercion backed by force" in Austria.

It was announced that Sir Neville Henderson, British Ambassador, and Andre Francois-Poncet, French Ambassador, informed the German Government that its action in moving troops into Austria and forcing a change of government there "was bound to produce the gravest reactions, of which it was impossible to foretell the issue."

CABINET MEETING

Prime Minister Chamberlain summoned an emergency Cabinet meeting for 10 a.m. (3 a.m., M.S.T.) tomorrow and postponed his weekend visit to Chequers.

The Associated Press reported the Prime Minister was understood to have warned the German Foreign Minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, that Great Britain might be led to "act with France" should Nazi pressure on Austria affect other Central European countries.

Earlier, a Havas News Agency report said Mr. Chamberlain was be-

CZECHS CALM IN FACE OF CRISIS

Trains and Cars Arrive at Border Filled With Austrian Refugees

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, March 11 (AP).—The Czechoslovakian Cabinet met in special session tonight to consider the general situation in connection with events in Austria.

President Eduard Benes presided. The Cabinet was represented as viewing the situation calmly. The impression prevailed in some quarters that the Nazification of Austria was not the private concern of that of a neighboring state, but a matter affecting all Western powers—in other words, a European affair.

Reports from Bratislava, on the Austrian - Czechoslovakian border about forty miles from Vienna, said trains and automobiles arriving there were filled with refugees from Vienna.

FLEE TO HUNGARY

Guido Zernatto, acting chief of the Austrian Fatheland Front and militant anti-Nazi, and Fritz Stockinger, former Minister of Commerce in the Von Schuschnigg Cabinet, fled into Hungary with their families.

Zernatto, minister without portfolio in the Von Schuschnigg Government, was secretary-general of the Fatheland Front and one of the main opponents of Nazi influence in Austria.

Stockinger, a prominent Austrian industrialist and politician, was a member of the Heimwehr, Austria's outlawed pro-Fascist formation.

ORPHANS OF WAR

HANKOW, March 11 (CP-Havas).—General and Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek will become the foster parents of what will be probably the largest family in the world as a result of their pledge today to adopt 200 Chinese war orphans. General Feng Huhsian, following his superior's lead, promised to adopt 100 children. Parents were found for more than 1,000 tiny war victims.

NEGOTIATIONS NEAR COLLAPSE

British-Irish Negotiations at Critical Stage—Some Hopes Abandoned

LONDON, March 11 (CP).—A breakdown in negotiations between the United Kingdom and Eire was narrowly averted tonight by Malcolm MacDonald, Dominions Secretary.

After talking for ninety minutes with Prime Minister Chamberlain, Prime Minister De Valera of Eire had decided to return to Dublin immediately.

But Mr. MacDonald in a subsequent two and one-half hour talk with Mr. De Valera persuaded the Irish delegation to remain until Saturday night.

Both British and Irish delegations were equally reticent, but it was reliably reported the negotiations were at a difficult and critical stage.

Questions of trade and finance had become major stumbling blocks to hopes of achieving a settlement to end the economic warfare between the two countries, it was learned. Hopes of an agreement to cover partition and defence have been definitely abandoned.

COL. S. T. WOOD HEADS R.C.M.P.

Veteran of Service Appointed to Succeed Late Sir James MacBrien

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP).—A forty-nine-year-old son of the service, Col. S. T. Wood, was chosen today as head of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police succeeding Commissioner Sir James MacBrien, who died in Toronto last week. His appointment was announced by Justice Minister Lapointe.

Colonel Wood, son of a former assistant commissioner of the force, was reared in a Mounted Police barracks and entered the service himself as soon as he finished his education. He has served at many points in the Northwest and became acting commissioner when Sir James was stricken with his fatal illness last Fall.

Colonel Wood was born in Napanee, Ont., October 17 1889. His father was Zachary Taylor Wood, a member of the Mounted Police from 1885 until his death in 1915, when he held the position of acting commissioner.

Receiving his early education at Dawson City, Yukon, where his father was posted, Colonel Wood later attended Upper Canada College in Toronto and the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

Soon after entering the force, Colonel Wood was appointed inspector, and he served in that capacity in Saskatchewan, Alberta, Manitoba and British Columbia. He also spent five years at the isolated post on Herschel Island, off the Arctic Coast, near the mouth of the Mackenzie River.

HOTEL STRIKE ENDS

STOCKHOLM, March 11 (AP).—Stockholm's hotel and restaurant strike ended today. Meals were served for the first time since January 17. An average wage increase of 15 kroner (about $3.75) a week was included in the settlement, with the result that prices will be raised 8 to 12 per cent.

Handel's Oratorio Splendidly Sung by Metropolitan Choir

"Judas Maccabaeus," Performed by Church Choristers and Soloists Last Evening, Interpreted as Great Religious Drama—Preparation Good

AS religious drama as well as musically, Handel's "Judas Maccabaeus" ranks among the finest of oratorios. This great work was movingly presented by the Metropolitan Church Choir last evening, under the direction of Frank Tupman, whose preparation showed genuine study of the subject matter and most careful rehearsal of the seventy voices who gave such a sincere interpretation.

The oratorio differs in several essentials from the usual cast of such works, beginning in a minor mood that projects a picture of the profound oppression which the Syrians of the time suffered, and working up to a mood of great religious triumph in the last part. This mood was cleverly developed by the restraint exercised in the presentation of the opening part, leaving ample scope for an access of optimism, spirit and exaltation in the second and third sections.

The work abounds in magnificent choruses, aided by many fine solos, which were most competently sung by the following: Dudley Wickett, tenor, in the title role of Judas Maccabaeus; Fred Wright, basso, as his brother, Simon; Mrs. Edward Parsons, soprano, and Miss Dorothy Parsons, also soprano, as the Israelitish women; Mrs. S. M. Morton, contralto, who as the Israelitish messenger carried most of the narratives in recitative; and P. J. Edmonds, baritone, as the priest. There was both intelligence and musicianship in the work of all these singers, and they added much to the inspirational quality of the whole performance.

CHIEF CHORUSES

There is an interesting instrumental overture, which helps to prepare the mood of the opening chorus, this being given by the organist, Edward Parsons, and pianist, Miss Maquinna Daniels. The restrained pianissimo with which the choir sang the first chorus, "Mourn, Ye Afflicted Children," was in itself an admirable reflection of the thought given to the preparation of the work as a whole.

Other major numbers by the choir in Part I were: "We Come in Bright Array," which, being an answer to Simon's challenging "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave," the magnificent solo assigned to the bass, Fred Wright, struck a martial note that was inspiring; and the "Lead On, Lead On," which was delivered with great patriotic fervor.

The big choruses of Part II were the dramatic "Fallen Is the Foe," which developed from a statement of material triumph into one of spiritual relief; "Hail, Judea, Happy Land," with its note of contentment, and "We Never Will Bow Down," extremely dignified and impressive, with strong emphasis of words and meter, and benefitting throughout from the boldness of the attack and full body of choral tone.

Last of the major choruses, finer even than the closing "Hallelujah," was the jubilant "See the Conquering Hero Comes," with its supplementary "Sing Unto God," two of the most famous of Handelian choruses, and in this instance sung with revealing meaning and sincerity. All the choral work bore the imprint of careful, intelligent and enthusiastic rehearsal.

In their respective roles, the soloists acquitted themselves admirably. Nearly all are experienced oratorio singers who understand traditional oratorio style and interpretation. Mrs. Edward Parsons was the first soloist heard, in "Pious Orgies," and again, in Part II, was heard in "From Mighty Kings," her two principal arias. Miss Dorothy Parsons' finest solo number came in Part III, "So Shall the Lute and Harp," an air of much technical difficulty, which she sang with taste. The two sopranos were heard together in the charming duet, "Come Ever Smiling Liberty" of the first part. "O Lovely Peace" was assigned as a duet to Miss Parsons and the contralto, Mrs. Morton.

In the title role of Judas, Dudley Wickett had pleasing assurance of manner and complete vocal authority, his major numbers being "Call Forth Thy Powers," in Part I, and the well-known test-piece, "Sound an Alarm," which was a ringing challenge.

Another very fine male voice is Fred Wright's, heard in the resounding "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave," a grandly challenging summons delivered with fervor.

INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS

Dr. Bethune achieved international fame by setting up a blood transfusion unit for the Spanish Government army in Madrid, last year. He went to China last month, his work there being financed by the League of Peace and Democracy.

He was born in Gravenhurst, Ontario, in 1890, graduated from Toronto University, and served in France with the Canadian forces.

Blanshard Day Is Marked by Presentation

The presentation of a framed picture of Richard Blanshard, first Governor of Vancouver's Island, to the South Park School, was made yesterday afternoon by the Native Daughters of British Columbia, Post No. 3, to commemorate Blanshard Day. For the past seven years the Native Daughters have presented similar photographs to other schools to mark this day.

A talk to the students on the significance of Blanshard Day, describing the first Governor's regime and giving facts about Victoria in those early days, was given by Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, following the presentation made by Mrs. James Brown, chief factor. Mrs. Beckwith, with the assistance of lantern slides loaned by the Provincial Archives, told of Sir James Douglas, Dr. J. S. Helmcken and other pioneers, and showed views of Beacon Hill, James Bay and the old bastion of Fort Victoria.

Mrs. B. deMacedo, McClure Street, has received word of the death at Oxford, England, on February 16, of her brother, Christopher Frederick Grenside, son of the late Canon F. R. Grenside. The late Mr. Grenside was proprietor of the Ham Manor Hotel, Newbury.

Annex of Aged Ladies' Home Finished

The above picture shows the new part of the Aged Ladies' Home on McClure Street, which, although not to be formally opened until about the middle of April, is already practically filled from the long waiting list and the several chronic cases taken over from the Jubilee Hospital since recent reorganization there. The recently-completed annex, the architect for which was C. E. Watkins, contains twenty-five bedrooms and two sitting-rooms, and was built at a cost of $32,000. About $4,000 has been spent on the furnishings, but despite these expenses the building is finished free of debt, due to the able financing by the committee, headed by the president, Mrs. W. L. Clay; vice-presidents, Mrs. F. W. Vincent and Mrs. E. Heddle; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. D. Whittier.

Threat of Invasion Gives German Nazis Control at Vienna

Defeat of Schuschnigg's dream of an independent Austria was foreshadowed yesterday afternoon. Then Schuschnigg postponed indefinitely the plebiscite he had ordered for Sunday to register Austria's opinion on independence or submission to Nazi demands.

It was Schuschnigg's sudden announcement Wednesday that the plebiscite would be held which precipitated two days and nights of turmoil throughout Austria.

Nazis assailed it as a violation of Schuschnigg's agreement with Hitler at Berchtesgaden on February 12. The tension finally precipitated yesterday's street clashes and mobilization.

STORY OF GERMAN COUP

This was the way Chancellery sources pictured the march of the bloodless revolution in its critical hours. In the early afternoon yesterday, Wilhelm Keppler, German State Secretary, arrived by airplane. He went immediately to the Chancellery and demanded that Schuschnigg's proposed plebiscite be postponed.

Miklas refused to yield to the ultimatum, saying he was an elected official and that he could submit to no such threats. Then Keppler telephoned to Berlin.

Within a short time, General Muff, German military attache, appeared at the Chancellery with the threat that if the plebiscite were not postponed, German troops would march in by 7:30 p.m.

Miklas refused to yield to this second ultimatum, saying: "I may have to yield, but it will be a yielding to force."

At this critical moment, with the prospect of German invasion, the President called military commanders for a conference on national defence.

OFFERS RESIGNATION

Schuschnigg, informed of the development, told the President he refused to be responsible for "the shedding of German blood." He offered his resignation.

Miklas was reluctant to accept it. But Schuschnigg prevailed, and a few minutes later made his dramatic radio address, saying that in that fateful hour Austria was menaced by a German ultimatum to which a time limit was attached.

Schuschnigg concluded his address with a fervent "good-bye," and a hope that "God will protect and bless Austria."

From this ambiguous good-bye Austria did not grasp at once that he was announcing his resignation.

Then came selection of Seyss-Inquart and formation of the new cabinet.

Removal of Mayor Schmitz was not announced officially, but Nazi reports were that he was seized because he had been negotiating with Socialists and "Reds."

Hour by hour came increasing evidence of the Nazi grip on this feverish capital. Early yesterday evening Nazi flags flew from the Chancellery and the City Hall.

SWITCH ALLEGIANCE

Many police and minor officials switched over to the Nazi cause immediately. Radios blared the Nazi "Horst Wessel" song, the German national anthem and hymn to Hitler.

Torchlight parades rushed to Jewish quarters in wild Nazi demonstrations.

This morning, airport police reported that Heinrich Himmler, supreme commander of Germany's police, had arrived on a perilous night flight from Berlin.

Through the streets ran fantastic reports that Schuschnigg had been arrested, that various members of the former Government had fled to Czechoslavakia, and that Frau Dollfuss and her children had gone to Bratislava, on the Czech border.

None of these reports could be substantiated.

In Linz, long a Nazi hotbed, Nazi S.A. and S.S. troops occupied the City Hall, police headquarters and other buildings. They did the same at Innsbruck and Salzberg. Officials at Linz appeared on the City Hall balcony and asked the people to maintain discipline. Linz streets were jammed with enthusiastic Nazi crowds.

Two hours after midnight, it was announced that Seyss-Inquart still was conferring with Miklas and would talk later to the nation.

Hundreds of Jews endeavored to leave Vienna.

The head of the Austrian official news agency resigned. He will be replaced by a representative of the D.N.B. (official German) news agency.

TROOPS PREPARED

BERLIN, March 12 (AP).—Reichsfuehrer Hitler sent German troops into Austria during the night to make good the new Nazi Government established there yesterday.

The troops were said by Deutches Nachrichten Bureau, official German News Agency, at 1 a.m. to be passing through Rohrbach, near Linz, Austrian Nazi stronghold.

At the same time, a source usually reliable said all members of the new Austrian Cabinet, except the new Chancellor, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, were closeted with Hitler at a late hour in the night. Seyss-Inquart was in Vienna as the sole Government representative.

The troop movements became known a short time after the new Hitler-approved Chancellor asked for German help to preserve order.

A Government spokesman declared not a single German soldier entered Austria before the resignation of the anti-Nazi Kurt von Schuschnigg from the Chancellorship.

ONE HOUR TO QUIT

It was pointed out the troops stood ready at the border, but that Von Schuschnigg bowed to Hitler's ultimatum, which was said to have given him one hour to quit.

The coup was marked up as another triumph for Hitler's shock tactics. By his moves, Der Fuehrer virtually expanded his "Reich of all the Germans" by 32,377 square miles and opened the way for Nazification of 7,000,000 of the 10,000,000 Germans outside the Reich, which he mentioned in his February 20 Reichstag speech.

It was held that Nazification of the little state will proceed now according to schedule, for the police are in Nazi hands, with Austrian storm troops ready to assist as the German storm troops assisted during the first months of the Nazi revolution in Germany.

The army, it was felt here, will obey the new Chancellor.

It was emphasized in Nazi circles that Hitler has no desire to have Austria made a part of Germany. The state is to remain independent in the same sense that the Free City of Danzig is independent of the Reich, they said.

But, in form of government, world outlook and internal organization it will be a miniature Germany, they added, taking its orders in the last analysis from the would-be "Leader of all the Germans," as Hitler often is styled.

Large contingents of Hitler's personal bodyguard were transferred during the night from Berlin to Munich.

It became known the newly-created Privy Council had met for the first time under the chairmanship of Baron Konstantin von Neurath, former Foreign Minister. Informed sources said the council had approved staking everything at this time upon making Von Schuschnigg clear the road for Nazification of Austria.

LONDON, March 12 (Saturday) (AP).—H. L. Broadbent, Australian distance flyer, left Lympne Airport at 3 a.m. today, G.M.T. (8 p.m. Friday, M.S.T.) in an attempt to break the England-Australia solo flight record. Broadbent planned to make his first halt at Athens.

CAMPBELL RIVER, March 11.—Edward Stanley Thompson, aged sixty-nine years, a resident of Campbell River since 1912, died here on Monday. He is survived by one sister in Tacoma, Wash. The funeral was held here on Tuesday, with Rev. Mr. Eby officiating at the service. Interment was in the local cemetery.

Archdeacon Was Present At Funeral

An account of the funeral of the late Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, D.D., which took place at St. Martin's Church, Ruislip, Middlesex, on February 25, is contained in a letter sent to Ven. Archdeacon Laycock, formerly of Victoria, now living at St. Paul's Vicarage, Park Road, Beckenham, Kent, who with Mrs. Laycock was present at the service.

In describing the scene, Archdeacon Laycock writes: "The sun was shining brightly and the birds were singing, and the shafts of sunlight streamed into the church through the richly colored glass. Every seat was occupied and many persons stood. The aged Bishop of London came to officiate and the Bishop of Kensington was there too. Rev. Dr. Jocelyn Perkins came to represent British Columbia and Y.C.A.; and the Archdeacon of Middlesex and the Rural Dean together with nine or ten other clergy, Rev. A. G. E. Munson (from Victoria) and the acting Agent-General for British Columbia also being there."

THE SETTING

Archdeacon Laycock read the Lesson (I Corinthians xv), the Bishop of Kensington read the final prayers, and the Bishop of London gave the address and final Blessing. The coffin rested on the usual high bier and was covered with a richly worked pall, the Dean's white stole being draped on it at one end and at the other there was a lovely cross of white flowers. In front, on the floor, were flowers, and potted flowers stood along the window sills.

FAVORITE HYMNS

"The ancient church looked very peaceful and lovely," the letter continues, "and all was done reverently and quietly." Archdeacon Laycock had taken the Canadian Hymn Book with him for the occasion and from it the organist played the Dean's favorite hymn, "Unto the Hills Around." The two hymns sung were "Let Saints on Earth in Concert Sing" and "Jesus Lives! Thy Terrors Can no Longer Death, Appal Us." Chopin's Funeral March was played at the end of the service.

After the service, the Bishop of London walked ahead of the coffin, carrying his pastoral staff, and the other clergy followed behind the mourners.

Archdeacon Laycock enclosed in his letter a sketch impression of the scene showing clearly the position of the coffin with three white tapers burning in tall candlesticks at either side, and other details of the scene in the church.

According to the obituary notice in The Church Times, Dean Quainton's death "came as a great shock to the people of Ruislip, where he had already endeared himself to young and old alike."

Little Stories for Bedtime

Timid Cousin Nibbler

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When the new home under the hay in a corner of the haymow of Farmer Brown's barn was finished Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had time to think about getting acquainted with their new surroundings. Nibbler the House Mouse had taken the greatest interest in the building of that new home. He had spent all his spare time, and he seemed to have a great deal of it, watching Danny and Nanny work. Danny liked him much better than he did at first. He no longer put on any grand airs. The truth is he no longer felt like it. Danny Meadow Mouse was so very independent and seemed so fully able to take care of himself, and of Nanny, too, that Nibbler had come to have a great deal of respect for him. Then, too, Danny never seemed to be afraid.

Now, Nibbler was so timid that he was all the time ready to run at the least unexpected sound. If Danny came up behind him quietly and said "Boo!" Nibbler would jump almost out of his skin. At least, it seemed that way. At every unexpected sound he would dart into hiding, and there were so many unexpected sounds in that barn that Nibbler was kept dodging in and out of hiding places most of the time.

At first this made Danny nervous. You know the barn was a strange place to Danny and he didn't know anything of the dangers that might be there. So when Nibbler would give a frightened squeak and run Danny would run too. But it didn't take him long to find out that seldom was there anything to run from. After that Danny simply grinned a wee bit scornfully and kept right on with whatever he was doing. At last he quite lost patience.

"I wish, Cousin Nibbler," said he, "that you would tell me why it is you seem so nervous all the time, always ready to run. I haven't seen a thing to be afraid of yet. You ought to tell us what the dangers are here because if we are to live here we must know what to watch out for. I had supposed from what you said at first that this barn was a very fine and safe place, but from the way you act I am beginning to think that it must be a very dangerous place."

"Every place is a dangerous place for people as small as us," declared Nibbler.

"I don't believe there is a safer place anywhere than this barn, but even here there are dangers. I'm not afraid. I'm just careful." Nibbler said this in a very dignified way.

"Huh!" sniffed Danny. "I wonder what you do when you are afraid. Now what are the dangers here? Does anybody ever hunt you?"

Nibbler drew a little nearer. "Yes," he whispered. "Black Pussy. She spends a great deal of time out here hunting for me. She is the most terrible creature." Nibbler shivered.

Nibbler would jump almost out of his skin

"I know her," replied Danny. "She used to come down on the Green Meadows and over to the cornfield. She thinks she is a great hunter, but she doesn't know the first thing about hunting compared with some I know. Who else is there?"

"Why—why—I guess there isn't anybody else. Of course, one has to keep out of the way of Robber the Rat. He is a terrible fellow, but he doesn't go out of his way to hunt me. And then there are Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy, but it is easy enough to keep out of their way," said Nibbler.

"I should say so," exclaimed Danny scornfully. "Is that all?"

"All what?" asked Nibbler.

"All the dangers we have to watch out for," retorted Danny.

"All except traps, but when you have learned what those are like they don't bother any. I should think that was enough," squeaked Nibbler.

Danny laughed right out.

"What are you laughing at?" demanded Nibbler.

"At the little you know about dangers," returned Danny. "All you really have to watch out for is Black Pussy. She is the only who hunts. Why, where I came from there was not only Black Pussy, but Reddy Fox, Granny Fox, Old Man Coyote, Hooty the Owl, Roughleg the Hawk, Digger the Badger, not to mention Blacky the Crow and some others. One or another was always hunting us, day or night, it made no difference. Why, you don't know what danger is, and yet you are afraid. Bah! I guess Nanny and I are going to have less worries than ever before in our lives. What's that?"

"It's Black Pussy," whispered Nibbler and scampered away in great fright.

Pleasing Comedy Is Presented by Little Theatre Association

"Quinney's," Stage Play by Horace Annesley Vachell, Well Received by Capacity Audience At Empire Theatre Last Night

THE Victoria Little Theatre Association made a noteworthy addition to its long list of stage successes with the presentation of Horace Annesley Vachell's delightful comedy, "Quinney's," which was played to a capacity house at the Empire Theatre last night, and will be repeated tonight.

Ably directed and stage managed, with careful attention to detail in scenery and stage effects, the comedy was played in a manner that would have done credit to any professional company. 'Quinney's" is a play that depends largely upon character acting and dialect for its comedy value, and the call it makes for real talent in this direction was ably answered in the interpretation given by the principals of the cast of eight.

THE PLOT

The story centres round the business dealings of Joseph Quinney and the love affair of his daughter, Posy, with his foreman, James, Yorkshire-born Joseph Quinney, a dealer in antiques, has a far-reaching reputation for honesty in business and as an expert judge of old and valuable pieces, and as the plot develops, he finds himself torn between his love for his wife and daughter, which by his bluff exterior he attempts to disguise, and his desire to uphold his reputation.

Quinney is an ambitious father, with great plans for his only daughter, and her love for the lowly foreman is a staggering blow, made all the more painful by the fact that he finds himself more or less at the mercy of the young man, who holds the dealer's reputation in his hand.

TRIUMPHS IN DEFEAT

Quinney's love for "sticks and stones," of which his wife so often reminds him, drives wife and daughter from his home, and in the end the stubborn old man is forced to admit defeat, yet triumphs in that defeat, and emerges from it with his reputation untarnished and the bonds of love strengthened.

The play makes one of the most exacting of demands upon the principals—dialect. Fred Spencer gives a remarkably convincing characterization of the canny but human old Yorkshireman, and carries the broad speech of the North countryman through in a manner calling for the warmest praise. Upon Mr. Spencer falls by far the major share of the dialogue, and his interpretation of a difficult part won the plaudits of last night's audience.

FINE PERFORMANCE

To Mrs. W. Ellis must go the fullest credit for her restrained and altogether excellent playing of the part of the long-suffering yet determined Mrs. Quinney. Hers was a particularly fine performance and her dialect work was very good.

The part of Sam Tomlin, also a dealer in antiques, and Quinney's brother-in-law, could not have been placed in better hands than those of Alex McGown, who was responsible for a great many laughs in the last two acts. Throughout, his work was excellent, and the audience would have welcomed his appearance at a much earlier stage in the play.

Helen Thomas made an attractive Posy Quinney, playing the part of that ingenuous and affectionate young lady in a delightful manner. Harold Gelling did well as James, but was inclined to extravagance in his solicitude for Posy, and was not always as forceful in his passages with Quinney as the play called for.

Grace Tuckey was well cast as Mabel Dredge, Quinney's typist, thwarted in her love for the young foreman. Steve Rands played the part of Cyrus P. Hunsaker, a wealthy American, and Phil Heal that of Dupont Jordan, a millionaire connoisseur of antiques.

The play was directed by B. O. Breton, with Leslie Lamb as producer and stage manager; Boyd MacGill in charge of scenery; Fred Spencer, publicity; Audrey St. Dennis Wood, properties; Noel Watts, sound effects; Betty Symons, assistant director; Leo Marston, assistant stage manager, and Mae Murray, house manager.

Several pleasing overtures were played by the Little Theatre Orchestra, under the direction of Mrs C. C. Warn.

SAYS ESKIMOS UNSPOILED BY NEW CONTACT

Bishop of Arctic Tells Canadian Club of Anglican Mission Work

DENIES INTERFERENCE WITH NATIVE HABITS

BISHOP A. L. FLEMING

"We do not go to the Eskimo and tell him that he is all wrong. We don't show him pictures of hell fire and tell him that that's where he is going unless he does what we say. That is not part of our propaganda, and anyone who portrays that kind of thing is telling a big black lie," declared Rt. Rev. A. L. Fleming, D.D., Bishop of the Arctic, in an impressive address on the work of the Anglican mission in the Far North, given at a meeting of the Men's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

"The religion of the natives of the Arctic region was a pagan religion, and while there was much that was good in it, there was also much that was bad. The church was endeavoring to remove the bad and leave the good, the bishop said.

"The Eskimo religion is one of fear, and fear is destructive. No child of man can be his best if he is tied and bound by fear, and that is a problem that should be considered in business and politics," His Lordship continued.

NATIVE WAY OF LIVING

Vigorously defending the work of the Anglican mission, Bishop Fleming declared: "We are the last people in the world to take the Eskimo away from his native way of living. From the beginning, the Englishmen sent to the Arctic have made the stipulation that they would shepherd the sheep wherever the sheep might be. Eighty per cent of the Eskimos are still eating raw meat and living in snow huts."

His Lordship described as utter nonsense the reports one read of the influence of the missionaries on the habits of the natives, attributing them to "people who spend a couple of days in the North, and don't know what they are talking about."

As an instance of this mistaken impression, Bishop Fleming told of an Eskimo who bartered his furs with a trader for a white man's outfit, even to the bowler hat and spats. "A man of the type we call tourists saw the Eskimo, went back to the East, and blamed us for what we had done to the poor native," His Lordship exclaimed.

SERVICE PRAISED

The bishop spoke in terms of the highest praise of the high character and devoted service of all white men and women, whether of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Hudson's Bay Company or the missions, who volunteered to live in the frozen wastes of the North. There was no place in the Dominion where one could find better stock than in Arctic Canada, he said.

Of the Indians and Eskimos he spoke with affection and admiration for their splendid qualities. "The Indians are the most northerly on the American continent, and, therefore, are the least contaminated by white men. I make no apology for that expression," he said.

Living in the snow huts of the Eskimos for as long as seven months at a time, Bishop Fleming came to understand their problems, and to appreciate their splendid character, and discovered that they had much to teach him. "I love the Eskimos," he said. "In the North you find that the Indian and Eskimo people can co-operate in a way that the people of the South often fail to understand.

"The Eskimos call themselves by a name meaning 'the owners'; can you imagine the native owning anything when his kindly brother from the South knows of it?" His Lordship asked.

EVOLUTION IN THE NORTH

The Hudson's Bay Company had revolutionized the Arctic, and the advent of the company's traders was a very excellent piece of evolution, for sooner or later the North was bound to be developed, and in this way the people were being prepared for the new day, the speaker claimed.

Bishop Fleming told many amusing anecdoes of his experiences in learning the Eskimo language, of his journeys through the hinterland, and his early contacts with the North "in the raw."

The speaker was welcomed by H. T. Goodland, president of the club, and the vote of thanks was proposed by Rt. Rev. B. D. Dagwell, Bishop of Oregon, who is visiting Victoria. Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia, also was present.

Visiting Official To Be Welcomed At Luncheon Here

ARRIVING from Australia this morning, Sir Howard d'Egville, secretary of the United Kingdom branch of the British Empire Parliamentary Association, will be welcomed by the Provincial Government. At 12:30 p.m. a luncheon will be given in his honor at the Empress Hotel, with the Cabinet and members of the Legislature attending. Mr. Speaker Whittaker will preside.

LEGAL OPINION

To the Alberta Premier Mr. Mackenzie King replied that it was the opinion of the highest legal authorities that the proposed scheme could not be constitutionally enacted unless the British North America Act was amended to place unemployment insurance among those subjects over which the Federal Government holds jurisdiction.

Old age pensions, the Prime Minister reminded Mr. Aberhart, were administered by the provinces with assistance contributed from the Federal Treasury. The insurance proposal would be administered by the Federal Government assisted by disbursements from the Federal Treasury and involving no disbursements of provincial funds.

"EDEN END" IS ENJOYED

Three-Act Play by Victoria College Players Will Be Repeated Tonight

J. B. Priestley's thoroughly enjoyable "Eden End," in three acts, was presented before a large audience by the Victoria College Players' Club in the High School auditorium, last evening. Vivien Combe directed the production, which will be repeated this evening. Incidental music was provided through the courtesy of the Victoria High School orchestra, under the direction of Alfred Prescott.

An interesting study in characters, the play featured several amusing situations and gave the youthful actors broad scope to display their acting ability. The players handled their roles well; however, at times it was difficult to follow some of the speakers' lines as they were spoken too softly.

The story is set in the Yorkshire home of Dr. Kirby, a hard-working and philosophic country practitioner of the best type, played by Bruce Mickleburgh. His wife is dead, her death probably being hastened by the departure of the eldest daughter, Stella (Virginia Chaster), who left home for the glitter of the footlights.

JEALOUS SISTER

Stella's memory is cherished by old Sarah, maid of the household. Lillian, the youngest sister, who has been obliged to take her mother's responsibilities upon her shoulders and to abandon her own plans for the future, is skeptical of Stella's success and appears to have no great affection for her sister on her return home from an unsuccessful career. The role of Sarah was taken by Eileen Walker, and Cynthia Musgrave ably portrayed the jealous sister, Lillian.

A young, carefree lad, who would not be taken seriously by his family, was portrayed by Michael Symons, as Wilfred, brother of Stella and Lillian, who was home at Eden End on leave from service in British West Africa.

Stella tries vainly to conceal her unhappiness from her family. Lillian also learns her sister is estranged from her husband, Charles Appleby, a cynical and disillusioned actor, played by Lloyd McKenzie.

The plot becomes complicated, however, since Lillian has fallen in love with Geoffrey Farrant, an old lover of her sister, enacted by Victor Turner. In a fit of jealousy, Lillian sends for Stella's husband, whose arrival lends several amusing situations to the plot and precipitates the crisis.

COMEDY RELIEF

Stella and Appleby decide to return to each other and go back to the stage, while the dejected Farrant prepares to leave for New Zealand, still very much in love with his former sweetheart.

Comedy relief was provided, particularly during the first scene of the third act, when Appleby and young Kirby return from a carouse. The droll humor of the former and his forgetful attempts to light his pipe while dispensing his philosophy to his youthful companion were highlights of the play.

Too much cannot be said of the creditable performances of the other players, who individually and collectively contributed to a pleasing evening's entertainment.

CORRUPTION

A political party that believes that "to the victors belong the spoils," as enunciated by a former Liberal Premier of this Province, is unlikely to pay any attention to the statement of Senator Arthur Meighen to the effect that he knows "who made the whole railway service (that nationally-owned) an appendage to the Liberal Party." Yet the plain evidence of fact shows that Mr. Meighen has sound ground for what he says, as is the case, indeed, with all public services under Liberalism. It is the cardinal principle of that political creed that jobs shall be given, wherever available, to those whose support can be relied upon at the polls. In this respect, patronage has never been rampant on a larger scale than it is today, for the simple reason that development of national ownership, social services and bureaucratic control have all conspired to make more jobs available. It is no secret to anyone looking for a political job that success in obtaining it is contingent on either an avowed or implied desire to insure the maintenance of Liberalism in power. On ethical grounds that process is corruption; on political ground it is regarded as smart tactics.

Even such a creation as the Royal Commission on Federal-Provincial relations, now holding sittings, is an appendage of Liberal rule. The extra expenditures on defence policies in the country are made the medium of the distribution of patronage, as practically everyone in this part of the Dominion is aware. Nationally-owned railways constitute an avenue of wide scope for finding jobs for Liberals, and that is unquestionably one of the reasons why the present regime at Ottawa is averse to unification of the railway systems of the Dominion. Such a course would, in the particular of railway employment, annul the system of patronage now practised by the politicians. It is this system that maintains on a brazen scale throughout every service of the Federal Government, and maintains as well in this Province to a degree never hitherto paralleled because of the fact that the expenditure of public funds is now greater than ever before. In drawing attention to that patronage in connection with national ownership of the railways, Senator Meighen may be one calling in the wilderness, but nevertheless what he says can hardly fail to make its impression on the conscience of the people who in the mass do not subscribe to a doctrine of corruption.

AUSTRIA'S INDEPENDENCE

There is a considerable section of Nazi thought in Austria and its demonstration has led to the latest threat to the peace of Central Europe. Herr Kurt von Schuschnigg, the Austrian Chancellor, has resigned due to the German pressure brought to bear against the holding of a plebiscite on the subject of Austrian independence. That pressure took the form of the massing of German troops on the Austrian frontier. The threat to the independence of Austria has grown more real within a few hours by the march of events, and it is one that disturbs Great Britain and France particularly. Italy, which a brief few years ago announced herself as decisively against German rule of Austria, has seemingly changed her mind, or at least to the extent of non-interference, following her undertakings promoted by the Rome-Berlin axis.

Whatever international developments arise in the immediate future are certain to find Great Britain and France acting in harmony, perhaps to the point of armed intervention if Germany invades Austria in support of the Nazi followers in that country. The independence of Austria is regarded as a pre-requisite of European peace. Again and again pronouncements have been made to this effect on behalf of Great Britain, France, Italy and Balkan Powers. If these countries, apart from Italy, which has changed her viewpoint, are willing to support their attitude by armed force, then another European war would be in prospect if Germany continues her attempts to dictate Austrian policy.

It is possible that a show of rigid determination, conjointly by Great Britain and France, will quell, or at least postpone, Herr Hitler's ambitions. In any armed conflict in which he might engage with a combination of European, Powers, he would be risking his own dictatorship, as he is risking it by an attempt to awe Austria into a state of submission to his policies by a display of force. Germany, however united her people, cannot flaunt world opinion with impunity.

DEATH CLAIMS

One of the larger Canadian insurance companies recently made a statistical study of its death claims during last year to find the ages at which death strikes among those carrying insurance. Of 1,141 death claims, the largest number, 308, was on persons between 50 and 59 years. The next largest group comprised those between 60 and 69, and included 268 persons. Other groups were, between 40 and 49 years, 258; between 30 and 39 years, 126; between 70 and 79 years, 87; under 30 years, 82, and 80 to 89 years, 12.

It was found that diseases of the heart and circulatory system were the chief cause of death and most of those who died were between the ages of 50 and 59. These diseases accounted for 38.46 per cent of the company's claims. Those suffering from arterio sclerosis were the next most numerous, followed by coronary thrombosis, apoplexy, cardio-renal, myocarditis, endocarditis and angina pectoris.

Cancer followed as the great single cause of death with 13.08 per cent of all the company's claims. Close behind were violent and accidental deaths with 12.27 per cent of the claims. In this group suicide took 33 lives and automobile accidents claimed 41. Twelve were drowned and 22 met death in occupational accidents. Diseases of the digestive system accounted for 7.39 per cent of the claims, with appendicitis the chief single disease, taking 21 lives. Pneumonia and diseases of the respiratory system accounted for 6.66 of the claims. In this category there were 59 death claims, regarded as a high figure, but still not constituting the scourge of former times. Septicaemia involved 15 claims, diabetes seven, pernicious anaemia seven, and typhoid fever five. Diseases of the genito-urinary system made up 3.38 per cent of the claims, with nephritis involving 22 cases. Forty-five claims were attributed to diseases of the nervous system.

WASTING TIME

A private member at Ottawa is endeavoring to get the Immigration Act amended to prohibit the entry to Canada "of persons over fifteen years of age, physically capable of reading, who cannot read the English or French language or some language or dialect commonly spoken by and native to the people of Europe." The aim in view is at exclusion of Japanese immigrants, but the method requires a lot of explanation. There is no language or dialect "commonly spoken by and native to the people of Europe." Apart from this, an attempt to discriminate against the entry to this country of the nationals of any one of the great Powers would be certain to lead to unpleasant repercussions. It may be doubted if Canada's defence preparations have advanced sufficiently to contemplate with any assurance the eventualities that might well arise. There are some members of Parliament, who, because of prejudice, allow whatever sense of international justice they may have to go far astray. Their divagations accentuate the waste of time there is in parliamentary discussions. This is a political era when there is much vacuity in thought and talk.

OVER 400 MILES AN HOUR

Some data are given in Engineering of the recent notable flight made by Squadron-Leader J. W. Gillan in a Hawker Hurricane single-seater from Edinburgh to London, a distance of 327 miles, in 48 minutes. The average speed was 409 miles per hour and the flight was made at an altitude of 17,000 feet, the high speed being helped by a favorable wind, the velocity of which was at times 50 miles per hour. The flight was carried out in darkness, and for a considerable distance above the clouds, so that the pilot had to rely on his blind-flying equipment.

The machine in which this notable flight was made is fitted with a retractable undercarriage and tail wheel and propelled by a Rolls-Royce Merlin engine of the twelve-cylinder Vee-type. Ethylene glycol was used as the cooling medium, and this enabled a high temperature difference to be maintained between the cooling liquid and the air. The fact that ethylene glycol was used in conjunction with a special system of low-velocity ducted cowling made it possible to reduce the cooling drag to a very small proportion, and to this is given the credit for the performance.

Most modern politicians lay the flattering fallacy to their souls that high taxation is only a redistribution of incomes. What they forget is that such taxation is destructive of public confidence, destructive both in the case of the people themselves and of their faith in government. It is axiomatic, as The London Times points out, that "high taxation impedes the purchase of capital goods, stifles enterprise, prevents renewals of plant, and amply justifies the old saying that money is best left to fructify in the pockets of the taxpayers."

Mr. Eamon de Valera says: "The unity of Ireland is important for Ireland's peace and prosperity and for her future position in the world." The trouble is that Mr. de Valera wants to dictate the kind of unity which dissociates itself from the British Empire, and this kind a very considerable proportion of Irishmen will not have.

Faith, like light, should ever be simple and unbending; while love, like warmth, should beam forth on every side, and bend to every necessity of our brethren.—Martin Luther.

Note and Comment

By Sandham Graves

Have you heard about the place where Victoria measures its weather, the Top o' the Hill. Very good weather, and forecast accurately, too; but there is something queer about the Top o' the Hill itself. Its temperature slips. By accurate test and measurement, the Top o' the Hill is warmer in Winter and colder in Summer than is Victoria itself by several degrees. It would make a natural site for a publicity bureau.

The director of the Publicity Bureau could just step outside the door any day now, glance at the thermometer and chart and say: "Well, boys, not a lick of frost last night—thirty-seven degrees was the lowest all night." That would be true, too, for the Top o' the Hill. I was thinking about that when I met an Irish friend yesterday, a young man of ninety-odd Summers and no Winters at all. He said he had just avoided an accident. He had taken one look at the paper to make sure there had been no frost overnight, and then gone for a stroll about Victoria. The paper stated that there had been no frost; that the lowest temperature reached anywhere overnight had been thirty-seven degrees Fahrenheit. Reassured, my friend walked abroad. The air had been a bit nippy, he said; with a whitish coating on shrubs and on the ground and a kind of a glazed appearance to the puddles in the road. However, he knew it could not be frost or ice, because the thermometer did not fall that low overnight. He had forgotten about the Top o' the Hill. In tune with nature and at peace with the world, my friend walked right out to Gonzales, where he even looked at the hill without thinking about it. Pausing in his walk to examine buds on the broom, he stepped inadvertently on to one of the puddles with a glazed appearance. It was ice, or the best imitation of ice he had ever seen. Moreover, clutching at a twig to keep himself from falling, my friend got a handful of hoar frost, or a very close substitute. Of course water may freeze at thirty-seven degrees in Victoria, but somehow I don't believe that it does. I prefer to think that the Top o' the Hill has its own climate. If I am correct in that, then we ought for our own protection to have a thermometer elsewhere in Victoria. If we put it downtown, it wouldn't matter much whether it was on the grass or in the air, because it would be on the level, where most of us have to live.

In season and out, this column has defended Victoria as a community with a rich bonus from nature. Artificiality could remove our advantages very quickly. Elizabethan gas stations and "petrol" signs on the one hand, or hot-dog stands and "Brown Derbies" on the other, would be but a poor attempt to ape what is done in other parts of the world. There is no reason to ape any other place; Victoria has a distinct individuality of its own. It is a city of homes and gardens, where blossoms may be found for twelve months in the year. It is a city with an equable (but not a miraculous) climate. It is a city without major crime. It is a city with a pure and excellent water supply, a first-rate fire prevention service, and the best and cleanest fresh milk available anywhere in Canada by repeated test. It is a city of good schools, whatever the fluctuation in departmental whims. It is a city of music-lovers, and of those genuinely interested in the arts and sciences. It is a city with a reputation for cleanliness, courtesy, and no small degree of intelligence. Property in Victoria from a residential standpoint confers more genuine favors than the equivalent property in any other city that I can call to mind. Victoria used to be a city with an inferiority complex. Gradually it has learned to overcome that, without veering to the side of boastfulness. Victoria is what you see and as you find it, and as countless thousands of people have found and admired it in their visits here from all corners of the globe. Beyond that, Victoria will be what you make it. Why build an imitation when you possess the real thing?

Southeast from Howland and Baker Island in the middle of the Pacific Ocean are two small dots marked on marine charts as "Canton Island" and "Enderbury Island." Canton and Enderbury Island have assumed more than ordinary importance, because two great nations lay claim to them. If the nations were totalitarian states there would, no doubt, be bristling manifestoes, sabre rattling, and perhaps the dispatch of armed forces to the scene. An "incident" would almost surely develop, or if a handy one could not be found, it would be manufactured. It will be interesting, then, to observe how two great and representative democracies go about settling the ownership of Canton Island and Enderbury, Island, to which both Great Britain and the United States of America lay claim. The negotiations have been in progress between the Office of each nation is already in possession of a memorandum by the other setting out respective claims. On both sides of the Atlantic it has been announced that our point of view is thoroughly understood by the party of the second part. Stop for a second on those words. Here is a difference that could breed war between more volatile races being calmly settled by mail, with diverse viewpoints "thoroughly understood." There is a useful lesson for the world in that approach to international claims. It is the method of reasoning and negotiation without heat, an object lesson to the world in the efficacy of a common postage stamp and a little friendly co-operation. By and large, differences between nations today are measured in terms of misunderstanding, a yardstick which some day the world may learn to lay aside. Keep your eyes on Canton and Enderbury Islands, because they are more than minute spots on a marine chart. They are symbols of understanding and goodwill.

The Observation Car

Glancing Over Sport

Technicalities crept into one match played during the Empress golf tournament this week at the Colwood course. One shotmaker claimed the first hole when the opposition caddie interfered with the line of the putt, and then the same caddie gained some revenge, so to speak, at the third tee when the other player teed off in front of the stakes . . . These little incidentals should be thoroughly forgotten in a tournament of this nature; for after all, it's a week of golf and pleasure. I know of several players, who, unintentionally, broke rule after rule in the qualifying rounds, and under strict circumstances should have been disqualified . . . There's a lot of "duffers" playing in this meet for the fun they get out of it, and most of them know little about the tricky rules of the Royal and Ancient at St. Andrews . . . That win of Art Christopher's on Thursday against Lee Stell was a sweet one. Art was trailing as they swung into the stretch; but he fired three birds at Lee, and it was the beginning of the end as the boys neared the clubhouse . . . Frank Gorrie, Associated Press writer from Seattle, arrived at the links Thursday. It is Frank's first meet here since 1932.—J.D.

Stones on Streets

Little boys who play roller skate hockey on the streets usually mark their goal posts with jagged stones, and then leave them lying on the pavement when the game is over. Perhaps a word or two from a few parents would eliminate the nuisance. On Wednesday night we counted six lots of large stones left lying around in James Bay district. They form dangerous obstacles to automobile tires . . . The law in regard to the grading of eggs with their sizes and degree of freshness is fortunately strict. But it is unfortunate that there are not other rules covering adulteration and kindred matters. Not long ago we noticed attractive chicken pies advertised in a shop window. When we opened up two at home we found enough chicken in both pies to fill a teaspoon. The rest was a mixture of tough ham and beef.—G.B.

Boxla Here Again

The boxla bug has bitten Victoria's up and coming young athletes, judging by the pre-season gossip and the number of boys already throwing the ball around. Popular in other cities in Canada, the game was introduced here last year and met with instant favor, many youngsters readily taking to the sport. Former players comprised Victoria's first box lacrosse commission, and stars of yesteryear coached the young players. While not making any huge profits the committee finished on the right side of the ledger after doing a fine work. We pause and take time out to extend congratulations to all who helped to put the game over last season. May their shadows never grow less.—S.T.

Bees and Buzzings

Toothpaste manufacturers have set various prices on the cost of just one tooth. Since they have failed to mention any particular molar we think we have found the price of a "sweet tooth." According to a gentleman, who apparently took the pains to find out, it takes eighty thousand bees, visiting three million four hundred thousand flowers in the course of a day to produce just one pound of honey.—W.I.P.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for heights seem to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the new Esquimalt drydock, add 20 feet to the height of high water as given above.

"And did your husband go to the club dinner last night?" asked a neighbor.

"Oh, yes, he went all right," replied the wife.

"And did he deliver his speech?"

"Oh, yes, he must have delivered his speech, because he was speechless when he came home."

A SPORTS ARENA

Sir,—Our organization, the Victoria Motorcycle Club, has noticed letters in the local press from time to time advocating the erection of a forum or sports arena in the city of Victoria.

It would appear that at present there is no definite plan formulated toward the worthwhile end, but should a drive for funds be inaugurated this Summer, I am instructed to offer the services of our members in presenting a motorcycle rodeo, net financial profit to be donated to the fund, providing the enterprise is launched by a responsible group.

ORIENTALS AND TRADE LICENCES

Sir,—In the Vancouver City Council last Monday, Alderman Wilson immortalized himself by putting through the licence committee, on a vote of five to four, a resolution which will allow that city to refuse trade licences—absolutely, "no reason assigned"—to all Orientals. All praise and honor to Alderman Helena Gutteridge, who, supported by Mayor Miller and Aldermen Kirk and Bennett, greatly dared in speaking and voting against such a cowardly camouflage. As His Worship well put it: "Why not come out in the open, then? You people who want to whisper in secret, 'We'll soon get rid of them if we just refuse licences to any but white men.'"

I say "greatly dared" because in British Columbia "equal rights for all races" is not a good slogan to swear by; yet, in the end it will be "the winning outsider." So unpopular is this elementary axiom of democracy that I have been repeatedly refused newspaper space to remind the public of its being the essential foundation of all true freedom—"fair play and no favors." So much so that the very Christian resolution of sympathy and help with Chinese and Japanese sufferers in Asia, though put into the recent session of Anglican Synod, was "hush-hushed" and never saw the light.

I am listened to when I say, "We want peace with those great Eastern nations, whence come our servants, these 'children of the East.'" But if I go on to say, "Let us then make a gesture of fellowship and brotherly love towards them in their distress, and isn't this a good time for a bid to insure the continuance of our friendly relations with them in China and Japan," I am at once hissed at and told that I am "taking the bread out of the mouths of Canada's great unemployed."

No, no. Now they are to be excluded from all further trading in Vancouver—not by name, openly, but by discriminative refusal to grant them licences. "No reason assigned." This might be good enforcable law in Russia, Italy, or Germany; but no such by-law putting persons born in British Columbia on the servile status of mere temporary toleration in the land of their birth or adoption, can ever be enforced in a British Dominion where the common law of a free people is interpreted and enforced by His Majesty's free and unprejudiced courts of law. But why not "come out in the open" and say out loud (without shame if you can) what you all know to be the truth, viz., that British Columbia is falling in line with Italy and Germany; that it is rapidly becoming no longer a democratic state, but rather a dictatorial tyranny, a slave-holding oligarchy, camouflaged under that flag which has ever stood for freedom to the slave and for equal rights for all men, of whatever color or racial extraction. But cannot the Vancouver Council go one even better than "der Fuhrer" in his treatment of Jews and other non-Nordic, non-Aryan races?

"HANDS ACROSS THE SEA"

Sir,—The American is in short, verbally eclectic and omnivorous. His appetite for variants knows no satiety."

One can smile very easily at Mr. Wilson Follett's eclecticism. It is too "omnivorous" for British palates, and we reply that Americana do not appreciate the value of the "exact" word.

If Mr. Follett had been privileged to study the roots of language he would know that "skitter" and "scatter" were originally the same word, except that "skitter" has been used for centuries, in Britain, both as a noun and as a verb, while "scatter" is distinctly a verb. "Scatter" is a purely British spelling, but "skitter" is Gallo-Roman.

It is unfortunately true that the English language has suffered from what Mr. Follett might call "custodianism." If its written form is highly Romanized, the influence of church and state is distinctly reflected and this influence was exerted centuries ago, in order to conceal the real meanings of certain words in the ancient British language. The "custodians of language" in the days of the Stuarts attempted to cover up these same roots in Gaelic by Romanizing the Gaelic alphabet, but the illiterate Gaels of the past generation still knew these meanings and no doubt a few of them are still alive or have passed on that knowledge to their sons and daughters.

With the knowledge of these illiterate Gaels, one can look beyond English and Latin, and into a true philosophy, which closely resembles that of Greece, for these same philological roots are traceable all over Europe, except perhaps in the extreme North and in those Iberian areas of the Mediterranean, where the little, dark, curly-haired fellows used to live, or still do. They brought to Europe a different conception of religion to that held by the Celts, and the Roman sword aided the movement.

European languages, all from a common source, evolved to give expression to religious beliefs, and that is the first and very essential reason why America should strive to preserve word-derivations. Present-day and old-time languages should be preserved and added to if necessary, but they should not be wrecked by Americanization.

D. L. MORRISON.

A PROTEST

Sir,—We wish to draw attention to the letter by Dr. Felton, recently printed in the local newspapers, wherein he endorses statements by John W. S. McCullough, M.D., D.P.H., to the effect that "the most dangerous of all milks is the so-called certified Grade 'A' milk." We understand that the city health department has for some years made strenuous efforts to establish "Preferred Raw Grade 'A' Milk" as the highest standard in the City of Victoria.

The dairymen have gone to considerable expense to comply with these regulations and have assisted the health department in every way to help maintain that high standard advocated by the department. The result has been that Victoria has been favored with a raw milk supply of exceptional quality and low bacteria count over a period of years, and this association, which is composed of both producers, who ship to pasteurizing plants, and producer-vendors, who deliver their own milk, take grave exception to a public official endorsing statements which do not apply in a district which is under Government supervision for the control of T.B., which covers every milk producer in the province, whereas England has entirely different regulations.

EXPLANATION

Sir,—For the benefit of W.I.F., of the Observation Car column, and anyone else who may be suffering from the lack of such information, pray allow me to point out that in England shop assistants (store clerks) are not in the habit of addressing to customers such expressions as "cheerio, pip pip, and all that jolly old bosh." I allude to that part of his remarks which suggests that this so.

Such a practice would certainly be frowned upon and discouraged by employers, especially in the larger shops (stores).

Perhaps our young friend (I am sure he must be young) has been over-indulging in American cinema fare (picture shows), which might account for his having such strange ideas.

I write this in no spirit of animosity, but I really think that it would be much more pleasant for all concerned if some Canadians would modify their attitude toward the Old Country, whose people, I am certain, bear Canadians no ill will.

REV. G. W. SHEPHERD'S VISIT

Sir,—In your Saturday issue you carry notices of the visit of Rev. G. W. Shepherd, of Shanghai, but I would ask your leave hereby to call additional attention to it. The occasion will be the annual meeting of the Victoria branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society, but that—though it should not—may detract from the interest which Mr. Shepherd's visit warrants just now owing to conditions in China. As the society's representative in China for many years and as having come from there quite recently, Mr. Shepherd has a large acquaintance with events, and he is an interesting speaker and an able man.

POSTPONE RECITAL UNTIL MARCH 18

Due to unforeseen circumstances, a change of date is announced for the recital to be given by artist-pupils and students of the Dominion Academy of Music. Originally planned for March 11, it will now take place in the Empress Hotel ballroom at 8.15 p.m. on Friday, March 18.

Students from all departments of the school will take part; the piano, under Stanley Shale, A.R.A.M., bringing to the platform some well-known local artists and students, who are undoubtedly destined to take a prominent place in musical circles of the future.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From The Daily Colonist of March 12, 1888.

Alaska Canneries — Recently several vessels have been chartered at San Francisco to take stores and supplies for the salmon canneries in Alaska. The vessels so engaged are the barks Annie Johnson and Newsboy and the schooners Queen and Viking. The canning business in Alaska has increased rapidly in the past two or three years. There are now thirteen canneries in that territory and several new ones are to go into operation this year for the first time. The pack in Alaska last year was 190,200 cases, or about one-fifth of the total pack of the whole Coast in 1887.

Coal at Kamloops—The general opinion for present indications is that a large and valuable anthracite mine has been located at Kamloops on the creek at the west end of the town. Superintendent Abbott took a number of specimens with him to Vancouver for the purpose of testing. Several tests of the mineral have been made at the C.P.R. shops at Kamloops, with most encouraging indications. Work will be commenced on a twenty-foot shaft at once. The vein is about five feet wide dipping to the southeast.

Rowing Race Arranged—Arrangements have been made for a boat race between Peterson, of San Francisco, and O'Connor, of Canada, for $4,000 and gate receipts, at Alameda, California, on March 18. The friends of each of the contestants appear confident that their sculler will be victorious. It is claimed that O'Connor is in better condition for the contest and that Peterson is carrying too much weight.

Two Trans-Pacific Vessels Will Dock Here This Morning

Niagara From South Seas and Empress of Asia From Far Eastern Ports Arriving At Same Hour

Ninety-three Canadian athletes, who participated in the British Empire Games at Sydney, are aboard the Canadian-Australasian Ss. Niagara, Captain William Martin, commander, arriving here this morning. Last night the ship was posted to arrive alongside Ogden Point Piers at 6:30 o'clock. Passengers and mails will be landed and local freight discharged before the ship continues to Vancouver.

In addition to the group of athletes, prominent travelers aboard the Niagara are Sir Howard D'Egville, secretary of the Empire Parliamentary Association, British official delegate; F. G. Sanderson, M.P., deputy speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, and Dr J. R. Hurtubise, M.P., of Sudbury, Ontario, who represented Canada at the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary celebrations in Australia.

ABOARD EMPRESS

The Empress of Asia, which was due to reach Rithet Piers at 7 o'clock this morning, according to latest information available last night, will be alongside the local dock for about two hours.

Among the liner's distinguished passengers is Bjorn Prytz, chairman of the A.-B. Svenska Kullagenfabriken and the well-known Swedish Match Company, who it is understood will be the next Swedish Minister to London.

Other travelers aboard the liner include D. A. Kermode, British Consul at Yokohama, proceeding to Europe with Mrs. Kermode and their four children, and J. D. Alexander, connected with McKinnon-McKenzie Company, Kobe, on his way to Europe.

LOADING LUMBER

To load 730,000 feet of lumber for the British Isles, the freighter Ramon de Larrinaga arrived alongside Ogden Point Piers yesterday afternoon.

WHALING CRAFT

Completing repairs and overhaul to the whalers William Grant and Blue, Victoria Machinery Depot will put them in the water this morning, when the Black and the White will be hauled out on the marine ways for cleaning and painting.

RESUMING CALLS

With preparations now under way for the 1938 whaling season going forward locally, Canadian National Steamships will resume calls at the Rose Harbor whaling station next week with the departure of the Ss. Prince John from Vancouver on March 18.

PILOTING NIAGARA

With two trans-Pacific steamships arriving here this morning, it was necessary to enlist the services of another pilot, seeing it was impossible for Captain Robarts to be aboard two vessels at the same time. Captain D. Clinton, well known here, came over from the Mainland port in company with Captain Robarts yesterday, and will take the Niagara up the Gulf, while Captain Robarts will look after the Empress of Asia.

PRESIDENT SHIP

According to information received here yesterday from Seattle, it was stated the American Mail Line Ss. President McKinley, outbound today from the Puget Sound port for the Orient, will also omit her regular call at Yokohama, going direct to Kobe. Passing up both Victoria and Yokohama was necessitated, according to the advices through the ship having lost two days on her last voyage, and the rerouting of the McKinley is being done for one cruise to get her back on schedule.

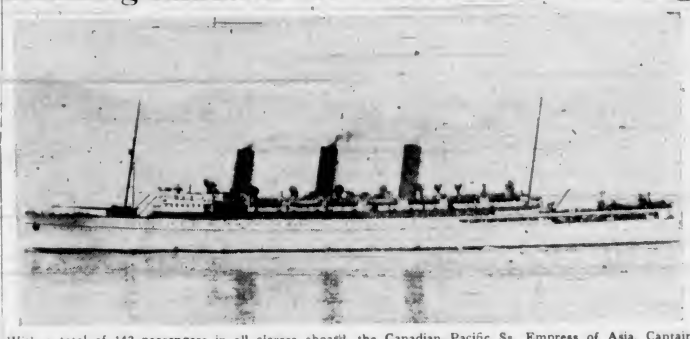

UNDER SCRUTINY

The United States Maritime Commission has ordered an investigation into rules and practices of the Pacific Coast-European Conference, it is understood. The Pacific Coast-European Conference is an organization of twenty steamship lines operating between the Pacific Coast and Europe.

RIVETLESS VESSEL

On February 1 there was launched from the yard of the Grangemouth Dockyard Company on the Forth, a sister ship to the collier Eldon. This vessel can claim to be the first Maierform coast collier, and it is largely owing to the success of the first vessel that the sister ship has a similar hull form.

Coming In From the Orient This Morning

With a total of 142 passengers in all classes aboard, the Canadian Pacific Ss. Empress of Asia, Captain George Goold, R.N.R., commander, was posted yesterday to arrive alongside Rithet Piers at 7 o'clock this morning. The liner has passengers, mails and cargo for Victoria aboard, and will be here until 9 o'clock, when she will continue to Vancouver.

REPORT MADE BY PRESIDENT

Alaska Packers Put Up 772,659 Cases of Salmon During 1937

The forty-fifth annual report of the Alaska Packers' Association shows that during the 1937 season the association operated nine canneries in Alaska, packing 539,971 cases of red salmon, 1,346 cases of kings, 2,546 cases of cohoes, 209,659 cases of pinks and 19,137 cases of chums, a total pack of 772,659 cases. In addition, 12,115 cases were received by the company as a result of joint operations with other packers.

The report presented to the shareholders at San Francisco, February 8, gives the book value of plants, terminals, fleet and California real estate as $6,274,521.63. Current repairs, replacements and betterments were made at a cost of $376,673.83, while depreciation to the amount of $162,147.14 was written off.

Quarterly dividends of $2 per share were paid during 1937, the report stated, and noted that owing to greatly increased cost of labor and materials, prices of canned salmon were necessarily higher than in recent years, and with the present business depression trade had been slow in responding to advanced prices.

FREIGHTER IS AFLOAT AGAIN

Long-Immersed Beulah Now Berthed Alongside Ogden Point Dock

The Panama freighter Beulah is right side up alongside her original berth at Ogden Point Piers this morning. She was towed there last evening by an Island Tug & Barge Company tug, and her remaining cargo will be discharged, beginning Monday, it is understood. In the meantime, the long-immersed vessel will be cleaned up a bit and her scattered gear collected preparatory to entering drydock for inspection and repairs.

With five pumps going to work shortly after 2 p.m. yesterday, the Beulah responded nicely, giving no evidence of being at all temperamental; and although scows were lined up on both sides of the ship as a precautionary measure, there was no disposition on the freighter's part to list either way. She came up perfectly level and floated easily, the tug boat putting her alongside the pier without any assistance from derricks or scows.

Viewing the cargo in the ship's holds after she was put alongside the dock about 5 o'clock yesterday evening, all of it appeared to be in place, which caused some speculation, as it was thought all along it had shifted and been the main cause of the Beulah's inclination to fall over on her side.

Following the berthing of the Beulah at the dock, King Brothers, who have been representing the San Francisco owners since the ship arrived here, advised them by telegraph that the Beulah was afloat and on an even keel.

CURTAILMENT IS NECESSARY

Anticipated Improvement in Rail Business Has Not Materialized

WINNIPEG, March 11 (CP) — S. J. Hungerford, President of the Canadian National Railways, today declared in an interview curtailment of C.N.R. shop operations had been found necessary and would go into effect April 1. Business had not showed the continued improvement expected, he said.

The president added:

"Employees were given the option of reduction in working days or reduction in the number of employees, and the men's organizations decided that the provisions of the wage agreements affecting all Canadian railways should be adhered to, namely, that the number of working hours be not reduced in order to spread the work available over a greater number of men."

NORTHERN FLYER WAS PICKED UP

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C., March 11 (CP) — Pilot Ernest Kubicek of United Air Transport, reported today that Frank Burton, of Northern Airways, whose freight plane was forced down on the ice at Wolf Lake in the Yukon Territory just north of the British Columbia boundary, was picked up yesterday.

Kubicek stated he had located Burton yesterday while flying the air mail from McDame's Creek to Carcross, Y.T., that he had immediately reported the position to Whitehorse, Y.T., and that a plane from Whitehorse had picked Burton up later in the day.

Kubicek said he landed beside the grounded machine, whose undercarriage had been damaged when Burton was forced to land on Tuesday during a snow storm. No great damage was done to the machine, Kubicek reported.

VANCOUVER SHIPPING

VANCOUVER, March 11 (CP) — The wrecks of the fish packer Canuck and the Vancouver tugboat River Chief were classified today as total losses in excess of $20,000 by Captain F. L. Clarke, surveyor for the Board of Marine Underwriters of San Francisco.

The River Chief, owned by the Harbor Towing Co., Ltd., burned and sank at Boat Harbor, ten miles below Alert Bay, last week. The Canuck, laden with clams, sank near Campbell River, Monday, after a collision with the tug B.C. Boy.

Carl Halterman has been appointed assistant manager of the Union Steamship Co. and Union Estates Ltd., it was announced by President Harold Brown of the company.

Plans for uniting the various fishing groups in British Columbia were discussed at a recent conference here.

Sixteen delegates attended, representing the Federated Fishermen's Council, Vancouver, New Westminster and District Trades and Labor Council, Pacific Coast Fishermen's Union, British Columbia Branch; the Salmon Purse Seiners' Union of the Pacific and the British Columbia Trollers' Association.

SOUTHBOUND PLANES FROM SITKA LANDED AT PRINCE RUPERT

The four planes of the squadron landed here at 5:12 p.m., followed a short time later by the Sandpiper.

MR. MEEK'S PSYCHIC

(A Tragic-Comedy in One Act)
Scene: A bridge table.
Time: The present.
Characters:

Mr. and Mrs. Hornett, respectively West and East. (What they think of each other's bridge is unprintable, and they're both right.)
Mrs. Blank, North, and Mr. Meek, South.

Mrs. Blank (coquettishly)—Now, partner, dear, both sides vulnerable, and we simply must take the rubber. Remember, we're only eight thousand four hundred and ten points ahead.

Mr. Hornett—Of course, we all understand you mean "approximately." You're so careless about odd points.

Mr. Meek (hastily)—My deal.

As usual Mr. Meek gets a little giddy upon picking up a big hand. He intends to open up with "three hearts," but, to his horror, hears himself say "three spades" and, before he can correct the misnomer, Mr. Hornett steps in with a resounding "double!" The bidding then proceeds as follows:

South	West	North	East
3 ♠	Double	Pass	Pass
4 ♥	5 ♦	5 ♥	6 ♦
6 ♥	7 ♦	7 ♥	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Mr. Hornett viciously slaps down the king of diamonds and, from that point on, the defenders can do nothing more constructive than moaning and groaning. Mr. Meek, still quivering from his initial slip of the tongue, does not require much composure to ruff the opening lead, draw the one outstanding trump and discard dummy's spades on his own long clubs. Feeling like a pickpocket, Mr. Meek then nervously spreads his hand, revealing the two spades. Mr. and Mrs. Howlett stare at them silently then:

Mrs. Hornett (to Mr. Hornett)—This is the end. I've played my last game as your partner. I'd rather join the circus and be shot out of a cannon.

Mr. Hornett—I strongly approve that idea. The job just fits your mental capacity. —May I point out, Snow White, that it was you who doubled seven hearts?

Mrs. Hornett—Well, we could have taken two spade tricks, couldn't we? Of course I should have realized that it would be a major miracle if you were to lead the right suit.

Mr. Hornett—O, sure! A spade lead was marked. I was supposed to know that Meek of all people had psyched in spades.

Mr. Meek (slightly insulted)—I didn't psyche. The spade bid just slipped out.

Mr. Hornett—Some slip! (He thinks for a moment.) Jumping jelly fish! We could have made seven spades against anything but a diamond, opening by North. It would have been cold against any lead if my esteemed partner had become declarer.

Mrs. Hornett—O, I'm sorry, dear! Of course I should have bid seven spades!

Poor Relation

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

CHAPTER IV

The ringing of the telephone awakened Katha. She sat up quickly, startled, forgetting for an instant where she was. Who in New York was calling her?

Reaching over, she took the white telephone and said a very sleepy "Hello."

"Good morning," a very wide-awake, cheerful, masculine voice said. "This is Bill McMillan. I thought you'd been up hours ago riding in the park with Lois. I didn't realize you'd turn into a city sleeper . . ."

She lay there and smiled. He was kidding her, of course. But how gay and friendly his voice was—as if they had known each other forever. Her eyes, clear and amused a moment ago, were puzzled. Had Millicent told him to call her . She remembered him—tall, bronze-haired, with a charming smile. Bill McMillan didn't look as if he'd do anything he didn't want to do . . .

Before she could say anything he said, "I had to get my call in early before the rush starts. I've just appointed myself a committee of one to show you the town."

"But you're a little late, I'm afraid. You'll have to be a sub-committee, Lois . . ."

"Oh, Lois, I see. The early bird." She liked his deep, gay chuckle. "We'll split honors. Lois may show you the museums and Grant's tomb and places like that, and I'll take you where the lights are still bright at dawn. Shall we begin tonight? Credentials needed? Ask Richard and Lois. They're my pals."

"Well . . . Would Uncle Richard mind? She was certain that Millicent and Evelyn cared little what she did or where she went or with whom. They'd probably be glad to have her out of their way.

Bill said, "It's settled then. At seven-thirty."

After breakfast in bed, Katha put on a blue wool dress and went into the drawing-room. Lois was curled up on the divan with a magazine. Millicent, wearing a mink coat and a small black hat, was smoking. Evelyn sat at the desk writing a cheque—for Millicent, Katha guessed.

"Good morning, darling," Evelyn said in her high, nervous voice. "Did you sleep well? I'll be through in just a moment and we'll try to plan something for today."

"It's already planned," Lois said. "Katha and I are having lunch with Dad."

Evelyn looked relieved.

Millicent said impatiently, "Please hurry, Mother. Kemp is waiting."

Katha sat beside Lois and said, "Tonight has been planned, too. I've just been talking to Bill McMillan."

Evelyn turned and laughed. "Oh, wasn't that sweet of Bill?" And to Millicent, standing beside the desk now, "Here's your cheque, darling."

Millicent paused beside Katha and smiled faintly. "Bill liked you at once. But don't take him too seriously. Too many girls have and have regretted it. Sorry to be running off again . . ."

Katha looked up. "Don't apologize. I don't in the least want to interfere with any of the plans any of you have."

"Of course," Evelyn said. "After all, you are one of the family."

How nervous and uneasy Evelyn is, Katha thought. Millicent is frigid, Evelyn nervous. Only Lois is at ease.

Evelyn cast a furtive glance at Lois. Her hands fluttered a little and her laugh was a foolish giggle. "And I've got to be running along, too . . ."

Lois looked unhappy again.

since last Spring, but has not had a seat in the Cabinet. He will retain the Chancellorship.

The other appointments implemented recommendations of the Cadman committee which investigated the condition of British civil aviation.

Sir Donald Banks had been Permanent Secretary of the Air Ministry since 1936. In his new post he will exercise the general administrative direction of civil aviation and will be charged with the duty of full and constant correlation of policies of civil and military aviation.

W. P. Hildred has been deputy general manager of the Export Credit Guarantee Department.

The new Director of Civil Research and Production, C. J. Stewart, has been superintendent of technical development of the Royal Aircraft establishment at Farnborough.

The changes were urged by Lord Cadman's committee with a view to more vigor in initiating policy and more foresight in planning.

Chronic Fatigue
Tells of exhausted Nerves

In health, rest soon overcomes fatigue. When you become chronically tired there is an underlying cause.

Perhaps you cannot rest or sleep because of the irritability of the nerves. Memory and power of attention soon weaken when the nervous system is exhausted. It is difficult to concentrate the mind and the daily task becomes a worry and a burden. Indigestion and sleeplessness ruin your temper, and you become depressed and discouraged.

Whatever may have been the cause there is a way in which to regain health and that is by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. New Nerve Force is created to restore the functions to the bodily machinery and ensure the healthful working of the mental and physical organs.

WAGE DEDUCTIONS PLAN ABANDONED

Alberta Drops Proposal for One Per Cent Levy on Income Tax Account

EDMONTON, March 10 (CP).—References to wage deductions as a means of collecting individual income taxes will be struck out of the bill amending the Income Tax Act, said Hon. Solon Low, Provincial Treasurer, in the Alberta Legislature today.

Protests over the amending bill's references to wage deductions, which had been questioned as a wage tax, were made previously when the bill was introduced and given first reading.

The bill provided that deductions of 1 per cent would be made from salaries and turned over to the general revenue account of the Province. When the income tax became due, the amount collected would be used as an offset on the income tax or, if more was collected, a refund would be made to the income tax payer.

STRONG PROTEST SENT TO BERLIN

lieved to have informed the resigned Austrian Chancellor, Kurt von Schuschnigg, that Britain could not advise resistance to Berlin's demands.

OMINOUS SITUATION

Germany's action was regarded as creating the most ominous situation since Hitler reoccupied the Rhineland on March 7, 1936, in defiance of the Treaty of Versailles.

Italy, once Austria's protector, stood by to give the Austrian-born German Chancellor, Adolf Hitler, a free hand.

Diplomatic sources in London agreed Great Britain and France, which is in the throes of a political crisis, would do nothing about Hitler's bloodless conquest of Austria beyond the joint protest which reinforced separate warnings to Germany of the "possible consequences" of Hitler's course.

Havas reported it learned Mr. Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax told Von Ribbentrop that, if Germans counted on Britain's "disinterestedness" in Austria, it should not assume this "disinterestedness" would hold good for all Central Europe.

A "FAMILY AFFAIR"

Mr. Chamberlain was said to have given Von Ribbentrop to understand that, if Austrian developments had repercussions in other countries, Britain might be led to act in concert with France.

Von Ribbentrop was understood to have clung to the Nazi thesis that Austro-German relations are a "family affair."

He was scheduled to leave tomorrow morning in his private airplane. He lunched with Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Halifax today, was received in audience by the King and visited several members of the diplomatic corps.

Sir Robert Vansittart, Chief Diplomatic Adviser to the Government, conferred with Baron George Franckenstein, Austrian minister.

A DIRECT CALL

Attention of the British Government was directly called to the situation by Von Schuschnigg after he received an ultimatum from Germany calling for his resignation and appointment of pro-Nazi Arthur von Seyss-Inquart to succeed him.

Britain is understood to have let him know it could not counsel resistance, but to have promised every effort in his government's behalf through Von Ribbentrop here, and through the Embassy at Berlin.

Extraordinary police preparations were taken around Buckingham Palace during Von Ribbentrop's visit to the King to prevent anything like the hostile demonstration the German statesman received at the Foreign Office yesterday. There was no need, however, for the foot and mounted police. Accompanied by his wife, Von Ribbentrop passed almost unnoticed when he arrived at the Palace.

FRANCE CONCURS

PARIS, March 11 (CP).—France, with a resigned Government carrying on while attempts are made to form a new one, tonight joined Great Britain in a protest to Germany against the Nazification of Austria.

The French Government learned there was no possibility that Italy would support a move to prevent drastic German action in Austria.

Instructions were sent on Thursday night to the charge d'affaires in Rome to inquire whether Italy would co-operate. He reported today. Foreign Office circles stated, no such possibility existed at present.

The Foreign Office announced that the French and British ambassadors in Berlin made a joint protest to the German Government over Nazi steps in Austria.

BLUM STARTS TASK

At the same time the Socialist leader and Premier-designate, Leon Blum, sought to form a National Union Government upon an enlarged base, with members running from Communists on the left to the rightist Republican Federation.

He was ready to discard the Popular Front formula, which has ruled France since May, 1936.

Blum hoped to complete a new ministry soon, but faced the task of persuading the Radical-Socialist, centrist and moderate rightist groups to sit in the same cabinet with Communists. Communists have never held cabinet posts in France.

Sources close to Blum said he felt convinced a cabinet would be organized tomorrow and would be ready to deal with events in Austria.

Besides the critical situation in Central Europe, Blum was confronted with a difficult financial problem and labor unrest at home.

"HANDS OFF" ATTITUDE

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP).—United States officials anxiously studied developments in Austria and Central Europe tonight, but maintained a "hands off" attitude.

Taking their lead from Secretary of State Hull, they refrained from placing the United States in the position of taking sides. The Secretary said he had conferred with President Roosevelt in the last two days on the situation in Central Europe, but without formulating a special policy. He denied emphatically a rumor that the United States had urged Germany in a friendly way to be moderate in her treatment of Austria.

Secret of Early Migration Sought

EDMONTON, March 11 (CP).—Relatively unexplored regions extending northwest of Edmonton to Yukon Territory may hold the secret of earliest migrations of man from the Orient to the North American Continent, Professor W. L. Bliss, University of New Mexico geologist, today told members of the Edmonton Canadian Club at a luncheon meeting. To search for clues of "ice age" migration, the geologist will lead an expedition into the area this Summer.

A GENUINE PUZZLE

He was up from the country and was "doing himself proud."

In a restaurant one evening he watched a man opening a bottle of champagne, and cried out in astonishment as the foam spurted out when the cap was removed.

"Well, what's so remarkable about that?" asked his companion.

"Oh, I'm not surprised about the way it comes out, but how do they get it in?"

City and District

Licence Reinstated—The Provincial Government reinstated timber licences for the Larson Timber Company, Ltd., yesterday, on payment of charges outstanding at $1,350.

House Entered—Police were informed yesterday morning that a partly-furnished vacant house, at 906 St. Charles Street, had been broken into. Entry was gained by smashing the glass in a rear door.

Board Meeting—A recommendation of the City Council that the school board reduce its estimates $17,000 will be considered at a special board meeting on Monday evening at 7 o'clock. A regular board meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Seek Grant—A renewal appeal from the Central Exchange for an annual grant was received at the City Hall yesterday. Last month the council declined to assist the exchange, since the organization is aided by the Community Chest.

Traffic Fines—Six motorists pleaded guilty to infractions of the Streets Traffic Regulation By-Law and paid fines of $2.50 each in the city police court yesterday morning. One householder was fined $2.50 for failing to possess a current licence for a radio receiving set.

Increase Water Charge—By order-in-council yesterday, the Government approved of a 50 per cent increase in the charge for water connections in West Vancouver, the rate moving up from $10 to $15 per connection under a by-law now ratified.

Order Is Waived—To benefit fruit canners at Kelowna working under special conditions, the British Columbia Industrial Relations Board has granted an exemption under minimum wages and hours of work regulations to Kelowna plants between March 10 and May 8, it was announced yesterday.

Open Tenders—New tenders for an aerial ladder were opened by city fire wardens yesterday afternoon and referred to the fire chief for examination. Alderman Archie Wills, chairman, stated the wardens intended to recommend to the City Council that a fireman be appointed to fill a recent vacancy.

Preparing for Poll—Revision of provincial voters' list is proceeding in Dewdney riding, with a by-election expected there towards the latter part of May. By order-in-council yesterday, the Government added five elections commissioners in Dewdney, and others in Comox and some other ridings.

Appointments Made—John Cameron was appointed as a first class constable in the Provincial Police at Zeballos, and John S. Smith as a third class constable at Victoria, in Provincial orders yesterday. Forest Ranger J. W. Hayhurst was made a constable with special duties under the Forest Act.

Will Not Pay Half—The Provincial Government will not contribute half of the cost of unemployable persons declared to be a municipal responsibility as at March 1, Premier Pattullo intimated yesterday, in response to discussion in Saanich suggesting that course. No such impression had been given to the municipal delegation recently, Premier Pattullo said. The Province's answer to the municipalities has not yet been given.

Says Strike Premature—Returning from the Mainland yesterday, Hon. G. S. Pearson classed as premature a strike of ninety-five employees at Blubber Bay, where conciliation was launched under the British Columbia Conciliation and Disputes Act. Provincial officials will explain the statute to the employees, seventy-five of whom were said to be Chinese. Under the act, twenty-nine days must elapse before a strike may be called, once conciliation has been attempted.

Co-operate With Settlers—The Provincial Government will co-operate with settlers in the Zeballos golf field on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, with respect to sanitation, water and other services, Hon. G. S. Pearson announced yesterday. A survey of the needs of the area in this regard has already been made by police and lands officials of the Province, who will report shortly to the Government.

Recital Is Held—The joint monthly recital of the Victoria Music Teachers' Association was held last night at the Y.M.C.A., when eleven studios of the city were represented in the programme of piano, vocal and violin music. Piano pupils taking part were Bobby Young, Harold Temple, Margaret Husband, Norma Hurry, Florence Lorendi, Emma Roe, Jack Rowe, Cecile Pagett, John Blanchard, Doris Bleathman, Peggy Sedgman and Michael Bent. The two vocal students were Bessie Hope and Thelma Gaetz, and Frederick and George Waters gave a violin and piano duet.

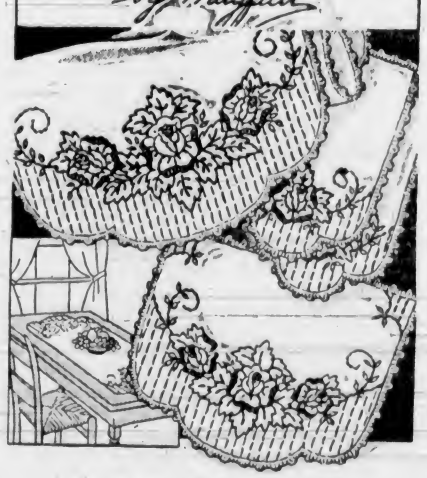

A woman entered a bank to make a deposit. She had some bills and cheques to deposit, so she procured a deposit slip which required the listing of bills, specie, and cheques. She listed her bills and cheques in their respective places, but was in doubt what to list under specie. After a few moments' thought she wrote after the word specie "Female," and handed in her deposit.

ADMINISTRATION TWICE DEFEATED

United States House Votes Contrary to Wishes of Government on Two Bills

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP).—President Roosevelt's administration suffered two clear-cut defeats in the United States House of Representatives today before the Chamber passed the Tax Revision Bill by a vote of 294 to 98.

President Roosevelt told reporters this morning that a proposed tax on closely-held and family-owned corporations was not punitive and that it was designed to erase special privilege existing under the tax laws. Two hours later the House flatly declined to put this levy in the tax bill.

Across the street from the White House, Secretary Hull criticized an excise tax on imported pork on the grounds it would be disastrous to the American corn and hog industry. He intimated it would result in retaliation by other countries. At the Capitol, the House refused, 201 to 182, to eliminate the pork tariff tax from its bill.

TAKE A TIP—

If a businessman shows the earmarks of prosperity—if, for instance, he buys exceptionally good printing, such as we are prepared to furnish at reasonable prices, is not prosperity more apt to stalk at his heels? Is it not true that men like to take their legal problems to the successful lawyer and to buy their clothes from the smart shop and to have their medicine prescribed by the busy doctor?

Spring Styles Step Into Feminine View At Fashion Display

Soroptimist Club Sponsors Revue at Hudson's Bay Company—Programme Will Be Repeated Today—New Trends in Design Are Noticed

FEMININE Victoria had its first glimpse of the Spring fashions at a revue held yesterday by the Hudson's Bay Company and arranged under the auspices of the Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria. The dining-room of the store was thronged with interested spectators, who were delighted with the presentation and applauded many of the mannequins as they appeared in outstanding new creations.

The mannequins were Mrs. R. D. McCullough, Mrs. Bob Hawkes, Mrs. M. Cummings, Misses Doreen McGregor, Thelma Ackerman, K Brinkman, Ethel Bale, L. Braithwaite and K. Clarkson, and those modeling the children's styles were Lorraine and Joyce Stocker, Herman and Edith Beutelspacher. They paraded on platforms built around the large pillars, and banked with greenery and potted Spring flowers. The "Vagabond Violinist," Sonny Richardson, circled among the guests playing "Trees" (Rasbach) and "Black Eyes" (Horlick).

NET EVENING FROCKS

Among the fashions shown during the revue were several of particular interest which reflect the latest in design of hats, suits, afternoon and evening frocks as well as fur wraps, in which the Hudson's Bay Company always specialized. The evening frocks were particularly lovely, many beautiful embroidered nets, organdie, chiffon, organza and lace being shown. The filmy nets were perhaps the most noteworthy in the collection, and in nearly every case they featured the bolero jacket style, which appears for afternoon wear, for sports frocks and for the formal dinner gowns as well as a characteristic of the up-to-the-minute dance dresses.

One of the prettiest, suitable for the youthful figure, was that modeled by Miss Ackerman, a silk net of turquoise blue, with a lace inset in the bouffant skirt, the same lace bordering the short bolero. For the more matronly figure was shown a charming black triple sheer dinner gown with cire lace sleeves and an effective navy blue embroidered mousseline de soie was brightened by gay pageant embroidery.

A silhouette gown of satin embossed crystal crepe with a "Dubonnet" sash which fell to the hem in front, was worn by Miss Clarkson, and with it went a smart mulberry model hat trimmed with pansy velvet. Masque blue was the shade of another of the gowns for the older woman, lace and crepe being cleverly combined.

FUR COATS

For evening wear were shown several short fur wraps of white lapin, silver fox, grey caracul, fitch, Alaska sable, civet cat and a particularly beautiful Summer ermine of the softest shade of brown.

Pleats have returned to favor for afternoon frocks, many of the skirts being made in the sunburst style of pleating. Skirts are definitely shorter, and where not pleated are close-fitting. The Spanish influence creeps in to the wide sashes as well as the boleros, and hats with upturned wide brims also suggest this trend. Popular colors among the afternoon dresses were hedgerose, sea nymph, and a wide range of floral prints. Roman stripes used sparingly as trimming introduced a smart note, in some cases the stripes being combined with a plain material in skirts to give smartness to a two-piece frock.

AFTERNOON COATS

Coats for afternoon wear were both collarless and fur trimmed, the honors being evenly divided. Nubby weaves, tricotines, camel cloth (one with a smart embossed design as trimming) and the popular Hurlingham models were specially admired. Hats were of great variety in material as well as design. The "Gaucho" felts vied with the jaunty little peaked caps, so reminiscent of "dwarf" influence. Then there were stitched taffetas with upturned brims from beneath which peeped bows of contrasting ribbons or flowers.

Among the tailored outfits was a smart Scotch checked tweed swagger suit in rust shade, worn with a bowl Breton hat of sharkskin straw leather, a combination which was distinctly chic.

West of England striped suiting in a brown shade was man-tailored and modish, and a particularly distinctive tailored ensemble was of navy blue Grenoble cloth, made on semi-fitted long lines and worn with a navy blue straw sailor hat, ornamented with a jaunty veil and ribbon trim.

Hats, which last year were wont to perch perilously upon the side of the wearer's head, are taking no chances this season, and many of them are securely held in place by chin straps and ribbons which tie at one side. This type belongs to the bonnet style of hat which is proving popular and decidedly becoming to the wearer.

The sports coats are "casual" in design, for the most part loose-fitting, tailored in line, and the sleeves are loose at the wrist. Plain and fancy tweeds were much in evidence and cape effects were also shown.

Among the smartest of the sports-wear were Lansea suits, the waffle knit Jantzen ensembles and the bunny wool sports frocks. With these were shown lightweight felt hats and upturned straws, a "pack it" sports felt which may be rolled up in a box, being an ideal traveling model for the wardrobe of the well-dressed woman.

The mannequins' hairdressing, which had been done in The Bay beauty salon, added greatly to their well-groomed appearance, without which perfect coiffure the new hats would be at a sad disadvantage. Janet Lee and Lady Hudson shoes and Lady Hudson hosiery were shown with the new styles.

There were several delightful dresses for children, including gay prints, a robin's egg blue "pantie" frock, a rose pink taffeta party frock and a becoming "McLeod" tartan skirt worn with an English blazer. Little Herman Beutelspacher modeled several smart little-boy styles, including a brown and white check coat, his sister wearing its replica in the brother and sister" set and also a white linen two-piece suit.

The style revue will be repeated this afternoon.

Spring Parade Mannequins

Two of the mannequins taking part in the Spring Fashion Show at the Hudson's Bay Company, which is sponsored by the Victoria Soroptimist Club, are, left, Mrs. R. D. Mark Double Anniversary Of Weddings

On the occasion of the double silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Holt, 1024 McGregor Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Parsons, Ganges, Saltspring Island, an "at home" was held yesterday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holt. Mr. Holt and Mrs. Parsons are brother and sister, and the double wedding took place twenty-five years ago yesterday at Centennial United Church, with Rev. John Robson officiating. Mr. Robson and Mrs. Samuel Gregory and Miss Edna Bird, the two bridesmaids, were special guests, also Mr. T. M. Bird, father of Mrs. Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Parsons arrived from Ganges to be present at the reception last night, and were the recipients of a lovely basket of flowers from the Vancouver and Quadra Lodge, A.F. & A.M., of which Mr. Parsons is a member.

The many guests were entertained during the evening by tricks of magic by Mr. A. Swaluk and recitations by Mrs. F. S. Dearborn. Mrs. Maude Hammond gave readings and Miss K. Clarke sang, accompanied by her brother, Mr. Douglas Clarke, and she dedicated her first solo, "Through the Years," to Mr. and Mrs. Holt. For an encore, she sang "In the Garden."

TABLE DECORATIONS

The table was artistically arranged for both afternoon and evening, and was covered with a lace cloth and centred with a bowl of white carnations and white tapers in silver holders. Presiding at the table was Miss Edna Bird, sister of Mrs. Holt.

In the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Holt received about eighty guests, and were assisted by Mrs. Samuel Gregory, Mrs. Arthur Deaville, Mrs. Frank Hall and Miss Dorothy Holt. They were presented with a lovely silver basket filled with red carnations and tall silver candle-holders from the Ladies' Aid of the Victoria City Temple, of which Mrs. Holt is past president.

NEW SONG SUNG

Miss Phyllis Deaville sang during the afternoon, "The Love That Will Last," the composition being sung for the first time. The music was composed by Mr. G. Jennings Burnett, and the words written by Mrs. Jean Stuart Clark. Miss Deaville sang as her second selection, "Love's Old Sweet Song," and was accompanied by Mrs. Grace Deaville.

The rooms were filled with flowers sent by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Holt and Mr. and Mrs. Parsons. Gifts and letters of congratulations also were received.

Modern Day Poetry Has New Appeal

"Contemporary Poetry" was presented in an attractive and more than usually understandable form, yesterday afternoon, in an address on the subject given before the Y.W.C.A. reading group by Miss Rena Grant.

Nearly all discussions of contemporary poetry began with some reference to its obscurity, the lecturer commented. This had been admitted even by some of the higher critics, and if that was their judgment, how much more difficult must the average layman find it to understand modern poetry. The poet had the right to demand some mental effort on the part of his readers. But they could not expect the frankly impossible, and a great deal of modern poetry was quite unintelligible unless one possessed the key.

Miss Grant proceeded to give this by suggesting the modern poet's technique as well as his thought processes, each being illustrated by the reading of poems by Day Lewis, Stephen Spender and W. H. Auden whom she characterized as "the three great voices of modern poetry," and Lewis as "not only the best, but the most understandable." Others from whom she quoted included T. S. Eliot, Gerard Manley Hopkins and Wilfrid Owen.

INTROSPECTIVE

The average reader of poetry was accustomed to "get somewhere." In much of modern poetry the poet was not talking to the reader at all, but was merely vocalizing the results of introspective thought or, very often, writing for a select group of friends who were able to understand his allusions, although these might be obscure to all others. T. S. Eliot's, for example, ranged through such a limitless field of subject that he left his reader breathless.

The post-war poets had no standard of conduct left, the old standards having been swept away, the old ideals swallowed up in unexampled cynicism. Eliot's "What the Thunder Said" expressed something of this utter hopelessness of a life emptied of all religion. The average reader did not want to read poetry of this sort that gave him a sense of the futility and hopelessness of life.

While contemporary poetry by which was meant poetry written during the past four or five years, was definitely the child of the realistic machine age, and showed the influence of Gerard Manley Hopkins in its technique and the "spring" rhythm, and of the young English poet, Wilfrid Owen, killed in the Great War, who made many interesting experiments in verse with a regular pattern of alliteration of a regular pattern of assonants, yet there was a change in the spirit and mood of the poetry of today. Cynicism and despair were gone. The poet was no longer awed or intimidated by social injustices. His concern was, rather, the changing of these conditions, intimating the return of the humanitarian outlook and the shift from the plane of sensual realism to the plane of humanitarian idealism.

As the bride entered the room with her brother-in-law, Mr. E. E. Harper, who gave her away, Mr. Harry Symonds played the wedding march. She looked smart in a grey frock with blue accessories. Miss Mary Common, the bridesmaid, was also dressed in grey, with black accessories, and they both wore corsage bouquets of Talisman roses. Mr. Wallace A. Wood supported his brother.

Exceptional Honor Marks Celebration Of Blanshard Day

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber Entertain Members of B.C. Historical Society at Government House

A VERY fascinating chapter in the early history of British Columbia was brought to the attention of members of the British Columbia Historical Society last evening when, in celebration of "Blanshard Day," His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber entertained about 200 specially-invited guests at Government House.

It was a greatly-enjoyed occasion, with an old-time atmosphere, in which short addresses covering episodes in the life of Richard Blanshard and in the history of Vancouver Island and early British Columbia played a leading part, but with a delightful supplementary programme of music and early Victorian dances, in some of which the guests themselves participated.

Guests were welcomed by His Honor and Mrs. Hamber, the latter in a handsome frock of black cire lace, with turquoise blue shoulder straps, bouffant skirt, and pearl and diamond ornaments. Assisting in receiving were the president of the Victoria branch of the British Columbia Historical Society, Dr. T. A. Rickard, and Mrs. Rickard, the latter in white and silver brocade.

Spring flowers were used in profusion in the decorations, in the drawing-room daffodils, mauve tulips, calla lilies, forsythia and plum blossom being used; and in the ballroom, hall and sunroom, cinerarias, begonias, palms and other potted plants. The supper table, lighted with candles, held a beautiful arrangement of mauve stocks, hyacinths, tulips, iris and narcissi.

THE PROGRAMME

After the brief formalities of receiving, Mr. and Mrs. Hamber joined their guests in the ballroom, where the programme took place. This was opened by His Honor's happy little speech of greeting, in which he expressed the great pleasure he and Mrs. Hamber experienced in entertaining the society on such an historical occasion.

This anniversary, said Dr. Rickard, after thanking the gracious host and hostess for their charming hospitality to the society, marked the eighty-eighth year since the first establishment of British government on the west coast of North America, for it was on March 11, 1850, that Richard Blanshard had landed at Fort Victoria and taken his oath of office as the first Governor of Vancouver's Island.

Other facts in the early history of what is now British Columbia were recalled by Dr. Rickard, who touched on the part played by the fur trade and gold in the placing of this part of the North American continent on the map of the world. In this connection he scanned history on the West Coast as far back as 1774, to the coming of the Spanish explorer, Juan Perez, who was followed in due course by Captain James Cook, Captain Clarke and an ever-increasing chain of explorers and traders attracted by the rumors of rich furs. The last and most important stimulus to population was the discovery of gold, which in 1858 alone attracted 30,000 adventurers to what in that year became the British colony of British Columbia.

BLANSHARD'S COMMISSION

Dr. Kaye Lamb, provincial librarian and archivist, was applauded when introduced by the president as the person entirely responsible for the very successful quarterly magazine now published by the British Columbia Historical Society. Dr. Lamb called attention to the original commission, with the great seal of England attached, appointing Richard Blanshard as governor of the Colony of Vancouver Island. One of the most prized treasures of the Provincial Archives, it was said Dr. Lamb, "the sign, symbol and expression of Her Majesty's pleasure."

The checkered history of this document was briefly recited. It had presumably been taken away by Governor Blanshard when he resigned office and left Vancouver Island in 1851. While crossing the Isthmus of Panama, the boat in which Blanshard was traveling capsized, and he lost all his papers with the exception of this commission, which had remained in the possession of his family until a few years ago, when it had been purchased by Sir Leicester Harmsworth and presented by him to the late F. C. Wade, Agent-General for British Columbia, in payment of an amusing wager. Through Mr. Wade, it had come into possession of the archives here.

A TRAGI-COMEDY

Professor W. N. Sage, president of the Provincial British Columbia Historical Association, also spoke last night, giving a fascinating sketch of Blanshard the man, "the leading figure in a tragi-comedy." Born in 1817, trained as barrister, and with a certain amount of Colonial Office experience and experience in the West Indies and India, he was, for obscure reasons, chosen by the Colonial Office in London for the office of Governor of Vancouver Island when the appointment was made in 1849. But from the very beginning his position here had been an anomalous one, for he found that he had practically nothing to do, practically no official dignity, and none of the just emoluments of his position. An instance of this was that he had been promised by the Colonial Office 1,000 acres of land here, but on arrival was told by Sir James Douglas that the land belonged to the office, but not to the incumbent. Happily, Blanshard, who was a wealthy man, did not suffer by these financial stringencies, but, being a sensitive and cultured gentleman, he had keenly felt the indignity of his position, and resigned within the year.

OTHER DETAILS

Other details on the programme included the presentation to Mrs. Hamber, by Mrs. Fitzherbert Bullen, of an old-fashioned bouquet made by Miss Marian Pitts; three charmingly sung numbers by Mrs. Rickard—"Land of Heart's Desire," "Sigh No More, Ladies" and "Loveliest of Trees"; several Old World songs by the Georgian Choristers, under Mrs. Georgina Watts' direction, "How Sweet the Moonlight Sleeps," "It Was a Lover and His Lass," "Flowers of the Forest," "My Dream of Jeanie" and "Tallyho"; the Russian Ballet School's presentation of an old-fashioned polka, by twelve girls in charmingly quaint, full-skirted white muslin frocks worn over pantalettes, and with black silk mitts, ringlets and black velvet ribbons round the neck. There were also an eightsome reel and Lancers by the Russian Ballet School, the men wearing Highland dress; a spirited performance of the Highland sword dance by J. M. McBeth, Calgary, to the accompaniment of pipe music by Piper Andrew Pollock, and an "Old-Fashioned Song" by Miss Honor Benson and assisting artists in mid-Victorian dress.

After supper, some of the guests joined in old-fashioned dances.

J. B. Munro to Give Address

The anniversary of the landing of Sir James Douglas at Clover Point will be commemorated by a luncheon which will be held on Monday at 12 o'clock at the Hudson's Bay Company, under the auspices of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Mr. J. B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture, will be the chief speaker and Alderman James Adam will represent the Mayor of Victoria. Mrs. Cowan will play appropriate music. The public is cordially invited to attend the celebration and a special invitation is extended to those interested in the early history of the city and province.

Reservations may be made at the Hudson's Bay Company dining-room, or with Mrs. Bertha Parsons, G 4rden 7491.

Ninety-Third Birthday

Mrs. Marion MacRae, widow of Rev. Dr. D. MacRae, of this city, celebrated her ninety-third birthday yesterday at her home, 821 Burdett Avenue. Mrs. MacRae was born on a farm at Aldrie, Scotland, near Glasgow, and was one of eleven children. She came to Canada when she was twenty years old and lived in Ontario until 1890, when she came to Victoria, she and her husband having started St. Paul's Church, Victoria West. She has always taken a keen interest in church affairs and in the happenings of the time, and is still well and active. Friends called yesterday to extend their good wishes on her birthday, and she received many gifts of flowers, in addition to three birthday cakes.

Telephone Dance

A jolly dance was held by the employees of the B.C. Telephone Company last night in the Shrine Auditorium. About 200 members and friends danced to the music played by a five-piece orchestra until 2 o'clock this morning. Many spotlight dances and medleys were enjoyed. A sit-down supper was served in the banquet hall, the decorations being carried out in a color scheme of yellow and green. The committee in charge of arrangements included Mr. H. Hunt, general convener, and Miss Doris Rawlins, Miss Phyllis Winterbottom, Miss Peggy Cheer and Mr. Glyn Jones.

For Spring Days In or Out of Town

HERE'S a smart rayon print dress for Spring days in or out of town. It's a perfect figure flatterer in its slim moulded lines. Inverted pleats allow extra fullness through the bosom, front skirt pleats animate the hem. It plays up a corselet waist effect through applied bands, which makes it enticingly young. Now is a splendid time to sew some gay striped pin-checked or solid colored cottons with the same pattern for next Summer's wearing. See diagram how utterly easy to sew, also V neck version. The pattern includes a complete illustrated sewing instruction chart.

Gordon Head Group Meets

A meeting of the Gordon Head Current Events Club was held on Wednesday at Gordon Head Hall.

Mrs. Nellie McClung gave an interesting talk on her trip to Mexico. She related that on her entry into Mexico it was necessary to go to the Mexican consul to obtain a permit, the next step being to exchange money, where one American dollar was worth three Mexican dollars. Mexico presented an old-world appearance, the land still being ploughed with oxen. The country was rich in silver and jewels, opals and turquoise being quite common. The Mexicans were a primitive people, religious but full of superstition and clever in their own way.

Miss Barbara Dawson sang two songs, accompanied by Mrs. Paddon, which were much enjoyed. Mrs. McClung also reviewed current events, in which she said that twenty-five billboards, advertising Victoria, had been erected in Washington.

Special Supper Prepared by Men

The supper given by the men of the congregation of the Victoria City Temple on Wednesday evening was a great success. A large number of ladies attended and expressed their appreciation of the men's culinary ability. Several of the young men acted as waiters.

Ralph Snider was an efficient master of ceremonies and introduced each "cook." Then followed a programme in which George Holt played a harmonica solo; Mr. Lanadell gave a reading; Vivian Shoemaker was the accompanist for the community singing; Stephen Brown gave a recitation, "Paddy the Valiant," and M. Jones recited "Irish Firefighter." A comic debate, in which Andrew Swaluk and Ralph Holt too part, was much enjoyed.

The menu of special dishes, served a la carte, included soups by Mr. McGuire; salads by Mr. Pearson; sausages by S. Brown; hot roast beef and gravy by Mr. Phillips; potatoes by George Holt; carrots cooked by Leonard Cox; coleslaw by Bert Hebden; pies by Fred Hole; pudding by James Bryant; fruit salad by Arthur Pearson; Johnnie cake by Mr. Peters; bread rolls by Mr. Lansdell; tea and coffee by Capt. B. J. Gadsden, and others assisted in preparing various dainties.

American Methodists Make Pilgrimages to Historic Spots of Evangelist's Stay in South

Celebration of the Wesley bi-centenary, which will come to a climax on May 24, is taking on varying forms during the opening months of the year. One of the more notable celebrations was the gathering in January at Savannah, Georgia, scene of the early colonial labors of the Wesleys, John and Charles.

Here 2,500 representatives of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South and North, promoted an Aldersgate session, commemorative of the spiritual awakening of John Wesley in the Aldersgate meeting house, London, May 24, 1737. This awakening followed the period of mission work in Georgia.

Bishops of the three churches that are now in the process of unification gave addresses on the significance of the Wesleyan revival in its effect upon American life. Pilgrimages were made to Tybee Beach, where Wesley is believed to have first set foot on American soil, and "The Wesley Oak," where he preached to the Indians and colonial troops.

BIG TASK FACES INDIAN CHURCHES

"Evangelical missions in India number at least 4,000,000 members, and to these are added approximately 250,000 yearly," according to the World Dominion Press Service. "India has her face turned toward Christ but there are only nine missionaries to every 1,000,000 of her people and in her 670,000 villages Christians reside in not more than 70,000.

"Foreign enterprise, it is held, cannot overtake this colossal task, in the last analysis it must be done by Indian people while at the same time a necessary part must be taken by missionaries. They can contribute a spiritual experience, Christian wisdom, and a brotherly undergirding expressed in helpful fellowship."

'Substance' Is Lesson Topic For the Day

"Substance" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The golden text is: "My God shall supply all your need according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus" (Phil. iv, 19).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Many, O Lord My God, are Thy wonderful works which Thou hast done, and Thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered (Psalms xl, 5).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Angels. God's thoughts passing to man; spiritual intuitions, pure and perfect; the inspiration of goodness, purity and immortality, counteracting all evil, sensuality and mortality."

Trance Message Will Be on War

At First Spiritualist Church, 1216 Broad Street, on Sunday night, a trance address will be given by the pastor, Rev. W. L. Holder, his subject being "War and What Is Behind It." There will be messages at this service. Mrs. Mayell will sing "There's a Beautiful Land on High."

"O Holy Ghost, Into Our Minds," by G. A. Macfarren, will be the morning anthem. In the evening the choir will sing "Abide With Us," by H. Walford Davies.

Rev. S. R. Orr Sees Possibility of An Overnight Crisis In the Empire

"Are We Prepared for a Final Crash?" is the subject to be dealt with by Rev. S. R. Orr at the Crystal Garden auditorium at 7:30 tomorrow evening. The questions to be then answered are: "What will save us? Is our Empire ready for an overnight crisis?" "Could the King be called to act without Parliament?" "What are the Anglo-Saxon nations called to do in the future?" "Why has the Church failed to function in this age?" "What should be done with our false financial, political and spiritual leaders?"

"What should we say to the Federal Government for unjustly and deliberately taxing in this time of stress a vital article of food necessary to the poorest?" "Why this silence about the Duke of Windsor?" "If the end of this age is near, what is to become of the millions and vast territories in China, India and Africa"

The Bible class, under N. Y. Cross, will meet Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Hotel Douglas. On Tuesday evening, Mr. Orr will lecture in the United Church Hall, Duncan.

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

After Pneumonia Couldn't Get Strong

After many severe illnesses the patient is often left in an extremely weak and exhausted condition.

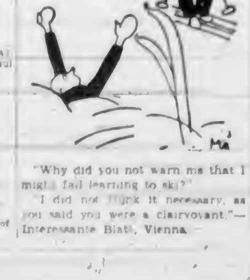

To all those convalescents needing a tonic to strengthen and build up their weakened system we would recommend Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to assist them to recover the full enjoyment of robust health. They help to tone up the nervous system and bring back bodily strength and vigor.

Buy a box and be convinced.

MRS. GEORGE CLARK, Wallace, N.S., writes — Some time ago I had a severe attack of pneumonia. I never seemed to get my strength back, and was always in a weak, nervous condition until a friend advised me to take Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

After I had taken two boxes I felt as well as ever, so I will recommend them to any one who is suffering as I did, for I could not have taken any medicine that would have done me so much good."

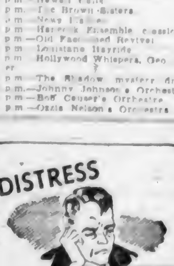

Put up by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd.

"Why did you not warn me that I might fail learning to ski?"

"I did not think it necessary, as you said you were a clairvoyant."—Interessante Blatt, Vienna.

What Today Means

"PISCES"

If March 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Be careful that subconsciously you do not say or write something that you will deeply regret. You may avoid committing a serious mistake against a social convention if you refrain from day-dreaming, as well as making it a point to concentrate intently on anything you are putting down in black and white. "Wise-cracking" is likely to be a dangerous pastime this day, so it will be good judgment not to indulge in it. The nerves probably will give many a person a vague feeling that something unpleasant is going to happen. False pretensions are apt to be among this day's trouble-makers, particularly if they are resorted to for the purpose of impressing other people. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are entertaining serious matrimonial hopes, must avoid nagging or serious fault-finding if they expect this day to be thoroughly enjoyable.

If a woman and March 12 is your birthday, your life should be very interesting, filled with success and happiness. Pleasure loving you probably will take a very active part in formulating plans for various social activities. You, perhaps, have a "hair-triggered" temper, one that explodes violently, and then, just as quickly is controlled, and you are ready to forgive anyone who has been the cause of your anger. You are not likely to harbor grudges or any feeling of envy. Among the fields of endeavor in which you ought to do exceptionally well are the literary, educational, artistic, musical or theatrical. If you have not impulsively plunged into marriage, your chances for connubial felicity are good.

The child born on March 12 is apt to be of a studious disposition, but thoroughly capable of taking an interest in the sports and pleasures of the normal youngster. Parents can find satisfaction in the fact that there are few failures in life among the children of Pisces, who celebrate this day as their birth anniversary.

If a man and March 12 is your natal day, your home and business ethics are most likely above reproach. High ideals and an exceptional amount of ambition ought to inspire you to do in a big way whatever you undertake. Through lecturing, preaching, singing, acting, selling or practicing medicine or law, distinction and affluence may be yours.

NO GRAMMAR NEEDED

A school teacher who asked a girl to buy a grammar, received the following note from the child's mother:

"I do not desire that my Matty ingage in grammar and I prefer her to ingage in more useful studies and can learn her to write and speak proper myself. I went through two grammars an can't say as they did me no good. I prefer Matty to ingage in German and drawing and good vokal music on the piano."

TOUGHS IN ANCIENT ROME

"Listen to this, Bessie," said Mr. Tubb. "This article states that in some of the old Roman prisons that have been unearthed they have found the petrified remains of the prisoners."

"Gracious," exclaimed his wife. "Those must be [illegible]"

DOMINOES DEFEATED IN SEATTLE BASKETBALL MEET

Christopher Wins Open Championship From Ralph Whaley

Victoria Shotmaker Scores Fine Victory Over Seattle Star in Final of Open Event in Empress Tournament—Finals Are Set for Today

He gave away a few strokes, but at that had too many shots in his bag for Mackenzie.

In the women's handicap, the favored pair, Miss Joan Fletcher and Mrs. H. G. Mackenzie stroked their way into the final. Miss Fletcher, the young shotmaker from the Uplands Club, received six strokes from Mrs. C. A. Bennett, Colwood Club, and ended the argument on the sixteenth green, 4 and 2, while Mrs. Mackenzie was handed a few strokes from Mr. S. Enke, Gorge Vale Club champion, and took advantage of them to win on the seventeenth carpet, 2 and 1.

CHRISTOPHER WINS

Although Whaley, the likeable Seattle golfer, fought desperately against Christopher, the local star proved far too steady for the Sound City siege-gun. Whaley captured the first two holes with pars, but Christopher came right back and squared the match at the short fourth with a couple of pars. The fifth was halved in par fives and the Victorian won the sixth to take the lead for the first time, while the next two were halved in perfect figures. Art Christopher copped the ninth to round the turn two up. At the tenth, Christopher found a trap with his second shot, while Whaley went over. The Colwood member exploded from the bunker beautifully and finally halved the hole with a four.

Whaley sliced to the right at the eleventh, approached short and lost the hole to Christopher's three. The Broadmoor player outdrove Christopher by twenty yards at the next hole, but over-clubbed himself again, while the Victorian was pin high to the right. Christopher won the the hole to go four up with only six holes to go. At the thirteenth both played their seconds poorly, but at the same time got good results. The hole was halved in par fours. Christopher pushed his tee shot off to the right in the rough at the fourteenth and had a bad lie. He clipped out and Whaley won the hole with a birdie four. They both drove the short fifteenth and Whaley canned a twenty-footer for another "bird," to be two down.

MATCH ENDS

The sixteenth was halved in par fours and Christopher became dormie two. Art hit a long drive at the seventeenth to be in front of the Seattle star by a few yards. Christopher was in a difficult spot, however, being to the left behind an oak tree. He played a three iron and fired a low shot near to the green, while Whaley was on in two, but away off to the right of the pin. The hole was halved when Christopher sank a fairly long putt and the match was all over.

In the par competition, Mrs. R. V. Hocking won top honors by finishing four up, while Matt Mather, Castor, Alta., came through in the men's event by being two up. Alan D. DesBrisay, Vancouver, and Miss Marcia Prior, Victoria, won the mixed foursomes with a net card of 70.

Victoria golfers combined to win the Matson Trophy against an interprovincial field, while Uplands Club walked off with the women's inter-club match. Seattle members captured the men's inter-club match.

Today's men's final will be refereed by Ralph Whaley in the morning and Lee Steil in the afternoon, while Alex Ross, well-known Seattle newspaperman, will handle the women's final, which starts at 11 o'clock.

TWO FAVORED FOR AINTREE RACE CLASSIC

Takvor Pacha and Royal Mail First Choices for Grand National

LONDON, March 11 (AP).—Takvor Pacha, French-bred jumper, owned by the Spanish nobleman, the Marquis de San Miguel, became joint-favorite tonight with Royal Mail, last year's winner, for the Grand National Steeplechase to be run at Aintree, March 25.

The French horse and Royal Mail, owned by the estate of H. Lloyd Thomas, were supported at 100 to 7 in the callover of cards at the Victoria Club. Next in popular choice was Arthur Sainsbury's Blue Shirt, at 15 to 1. Blue Shirt and Royal Mail previously were co-favorites at 100 to 7.

J. B. Snow's Delachance, British-bred but American-owned, was at 16 to 1. Other odds were Colleen, 20 to 1; Dunhill Castle and Royal Danielli, 22 to 1; Stalbridge Park and Red Knights, 25 to 1; Red Freeman, 28 to 1; Bachelor Prince, 33 to 1; Cabin Fire and Airgead Sios, 40 to 1.

Takvor Pacha stepped up to the front rank by winning a three-mile optional selling race at Hurst Park today. The price on Delachance tended to lengthen because he ran badly in the National Hunt Steeplechase at Cheltenham recently.

DOUBTFUL STARTER

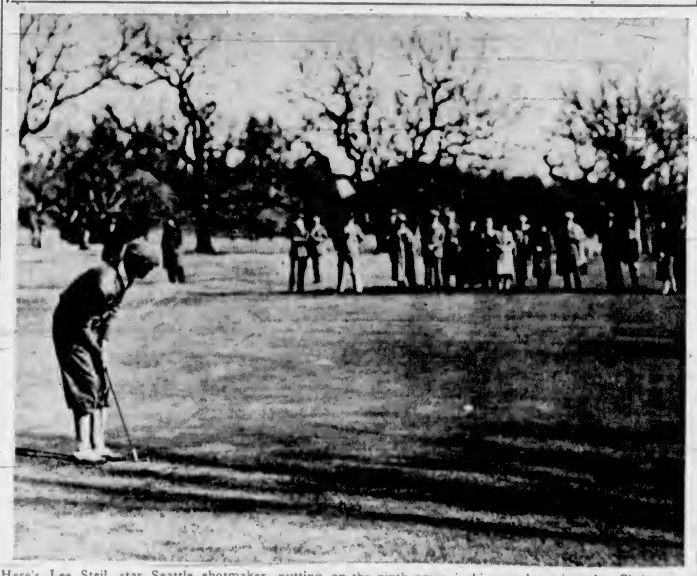

Sir Francis Towle, owner of Airgead Sios, said that he was a doubtful starter in view of the fact he failed to place in the Cheltenham Gold Cup. Sir Francis said he would consult Jockey McNeill on the question.

For the Lincolnshire, to be contested over one mile, March 23, Mrs. C. Winn's Bel-Ami was favorite at 100 to 8 in tonight's callover, followed by C. Jarvis' Galsonia at 15 to 1. Other odds: Squadron Castle, 100 to 6; Thankerton and Peter Kane, 18 to 1; Gunboat, 20 to 1; Starflyer, 22 to 1; Hornpipe, 25 to 1.

Commission Hands Out Suspension to Football Players

ORDERED from the field during a league match at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday, February 26, Elliott, Garrison and Cliff Robbins, Victoria City, have been given one week's suspension by the British Columbia Football Commission, local members announced yesterday, the suspension to become effective immediately. The players staged a short fistic display during an exciting moment of the match and were sent to the sidelines by Referee Dave Swan.

Steil Putting on Ninth in Semi-Finals

Here's Lee Steil, star Seattle shotmaker, putting on the ninth green in his match against Art Christopher in the semi-finals of the men's open event in the tenth annual Empress Winter golf tournament, Thursday, at the Colwood course. Steil, the defending champion, was two up at the halfway mark when this photo was taken by The Colonist cameraman, but Christopher burned up the incoming route with a great 33 to win the decision on the seventeenth green, 3 and 1. Yesterday, Christopher turned in another grand performance to win the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Trophy and the championship by defeating Ralph Whaley, Seattle, in the final, 2 and 1.

Baer Punches Out Decisive Victory Over Tommy Farr

Former Heavyweight Champion Wins Eleven Rounds Out of Fifteen Against British Heavyweight Titleholder—Farr Is Floored Three Times—Tiger Jack Fox Scores Knockout

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP).—Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, took long strides along the futile comeback trail tonight by giving Tommy Farr, British titleholder, a sound defeat in a sizzling fifteen-round bout before a near-capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden. Baer weighed 212 and Farr 208½.

Only the Welshman's gameness and a jaw that must have been made of cast iron enabled him to go the distance. He was a badly-whipped fighter as he left the ring after fifteen rounds of bruising, savage milling.

The former California playboy, down to serious business for the first time since his days on the throne, had the man who stayed fifteen rounds with Joe Louis on the floor three times.

Baer won eleven rounds on The Associated Press score card. Farr was given three and one was called even.

BAER MOVES UP

Already licked by Louis and James J. Braddock, another former champion, the defeat tonight virtually eliminates Farr from the championship picture and puts Baer in a commanding position to demand first shot at the winner of next June's battle between Louis and Max Schmeling, the "Slugging Schlager," from Germany.

Displaying most of his old-time punching ability, Baer sent Tommy to the deck for a count of one with a stinging left to the jaw in the second round, then repeated in the third, with a right to the jaw. This time Farr took a six count. The third knockdown came in the fourteenth from a short right to the jaw.

The former champion started out like wildfire, tired somewhat during the middle stages, but rallied gamely to capture the last three rounds, after a four-round spurt by the Welshman had the crowd of 18,222 customers, who paid $74,409.22 to see the bruising battle, on their feet.

Baer fought most of the fight with his left eye completely closed. Cut in the third, the eye began to swell and by the fifth was entirely closed. Despite the handicap, Maxie charged in and lashed out with both fists to give Tommy the worst licking of his fighting career.

Farr won only one of the first eight rounds, but this was taken away from him by Referee Arthur Donovan because of a low punch. This was the fourth, when Tommy made his best showing of the evening. Baer was beginning to pay the penalty for the sizzling pace he set at the start, and Farr, who was in superb condition, banged him about no little.

More than once it appeared the Californian would knock Tommy out. Not many heavies could have stood up under Baer's terrific punches in the earlier and closing rounds of the fight.

Tommy boxed as well as he did against Louis and Braddock, but he showed no punching prowess to speak of until late in the fight, when he cut loose with a hard right that annoyed Max.

Except for his bruised and swollen eye, Baer emerged unscathed. Farr had two bruised eyes, a bleeding nose and his body was red from Baer's blows.

Tiger Jack Fox, Spokane, Wash., negro heavyweight, spotting Johnny Whitters, of Detroit, twenty pounds, but stopped the Detroit negro in the fourth round of their six-round semi-final.

Fox scaled 181 and Whitters 201½.

Fox, much the superior puncher, floored Whitters for a count of eight just before Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the fight.

Fort Garry Wins Second Match of Play-Off Series

VANCOUVER, March 11 (CP).—Fort Garry girls' basketball team tonight tied up the Cagette League championship finals with a 30-20 win over Spencers.

The win gives each team two games with another match necessary to decide who will represent Vancouver in the British Columbia senior "A" championship finals in Victoria next week. The fifth game of the series here will be played Monday night.

The first period of tonight's game ended with six points for each team, but Spencers took the lead in the next twenty minutes to go into the third period with the score 9-8 in their favor.

Fort Garry came back strong and ended the period with a 22-15 lead over Spencers, then scored eight points in the last frame while they held Spencers to five.

CALGARY TRIUMPHS

CALGARY, March 18 (CP).—Fast hockey gave Calgary Rangers the second game in the Alberta senior championship series here last night, with a 3-2 victory over the stubborn Luscar Indians.

It forces the series to a third game in Calgary, Saturday night. Luscar won last Monday's game, 3-2, at Mountain Park, southwest of Edmonton.

VICTORIA CAGEMEN BEATEN BY TACOMA BY 53-22 SCORE

Jack Holstine Leads Heidelbergs to One-Sided Victory Over Local Squad in Sound City Tournament by Scoring Twenty Points—Victoria Leads at Half Time by 14-12 Score

SEATTLE, March 11 (CP).—Alt Heidelberg's, of Tacoma, tonight defeated Victoria Dominoes 53-22 to win the right to meet Cammaranos, of Seattle, in the ninth annual Pacific Northwest A.A.U. basketball finals tomorrow.

Jack Holstine, former Washington State College star, sparked the Alt Heidelbergs into the finals, scoring twenty points for the second straight night. Victoria took a 14-12 halftime lead after a slow half featured by close checking.

Holstine and his mates broke away in the last half, however, Holstine collecting fourteen of his twenty points. C. Chapman looked good for Victoria. Hank Rowe also shone for the British Columbians, who collected only three field goals in the second half.

After Tacoma and Seattle fight it out for the first and second positions tomorrow, Victoria meets Yakima and Alpine's play Mount Vernon. Winners of those games will compete tomorrow night to determine the third-place holder.

Seattle won into the final by defeating Yakima Sparks, 18-17.

CREWS SPIN OVER COURSE

Both Oxford and Cambridge Eights Row Full Distance Of Big Race

LONDON, March 11 (CP).—The Oxford and Cambridge crews both rowed the full boat race course—Putney to Mortlake—yesterday. Cambridge was clocked for the 4 miles and 300 yards at 21:15, and Oxford slightly slower at 21:28. The course record is 18:03, set by Cambridge in the 1934 race.

Neither spin today was a rowing trial in the accepted sense, and the good times were due principally to favorable conditions.

The crews have three weeks' training before them for the annual race, April 2.

Cambridge preceded their paddle by rowing from their Chiswick headquarters to Putney in easy stages, covering nine miles in their outing.

Oxford had their first serious row in the morning, from Hammersmith Bridge to Putney Bridge, their time of 7:51 far short of the record for the stretch set by Cambridge in 1933 at 7:15.

F. A. Waldron, Oxford No. 6 man, missed the morning workout, but resumed his place for the full course outing.

Feature of the Cambridge full course row was a burst from Mortlake to Barnes Bridge in 2:55.

CANADIANS IN DRAW

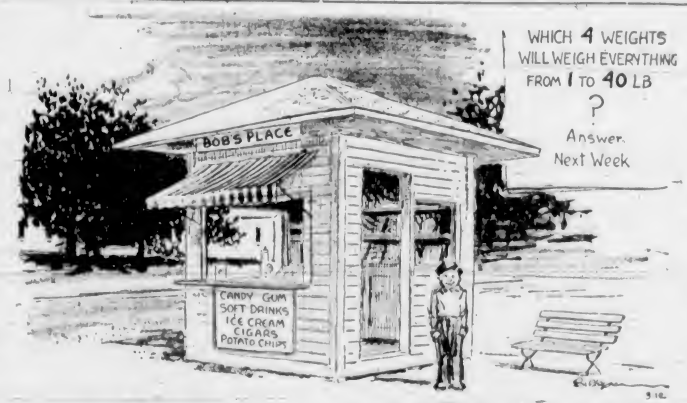

GLASGOW, March 11 (CP).—The Canadian hockey team, playing as Sudbury Wolves, tonight wound up a long European tour by drawing 1-1 with a team of all-stars from the Scottish League. The Wolves sail for home tomorrow.

Vancouver Cage Winners to Play Here Next Week

VANCOUVER, March 11 (CP).—Ken Walton, secretary of British Columbia Basketball Association, announced today winners of the Cagette Women's Basketball League will play their two-game total-points-to-count senior "A" series with Vancouver Island champions in Victoria March 16 and 17.

Victoria will meet Cloverdale in a sudden-death senior "B" men's Coast final March 16.

Victoria Hard-of-Hearing Club Holds Annual Meeting—Officers Elected

The third annual general meeting of the Victoria Club for the Hard-of-Hearing was held at the clubrooms, 1011 Government Street, on Wednesday evening. The president, Mrs. Basil Combe, first vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Routledge, secretary, B. S. H. Tye, and treasurer, Miss Rita Carveth, were all re-elected by acclamation, and F. I. Shaw was again elected second vice-president.

The following members were elected to act on the committee: Mrs. C. H. Friberg, Miss Dodimead, Mrs. T. C. Burley, H. G. Hinton, Fred Y. McKee and Kenneth T. Hughes. Mr. Hinton was again elected auditor by acclamation.

A very pleasing event of the evening was when Mr. Shaw and Mr. Tye were each presented with a fountain pen and pencil set in appreciation of all they had done for the club during the past year.

PRESENT REPORTS

The president, in her annual report, drew the attention of the members to what a successful year the club had had. Every month from April to December was noted for the successful undertaking of some entertainment, rummage sale, sale of work, concert or silver tea in order to raise money to purchase the group hearing aid. The event of the year took place in December, when the club reached its objective and purchased the instrument with headsets for forty persons.

The treasurer reported that the club had a very satisfactory balance in the bank. A vote of thanks was tendered the treasurer, Miss Carveth, for her very efficient work, and to Mr. Noble for his valuable help in purchasing the group aid.

Resolutions were passed thanking the auditor, The Colonist and The Times for their splendid publicity, also Mrs. F. A. Brown for her valuable assistance at all times, and Mr. Lavery for his musical performances.

Cup Game Postponed

Chicago Puckchaser Moves Closer To Drillon in National League Scoring Race

By The Canadian Press

Paul Thompson, of Chicago, carried along his late-season scoring burst at the head of the National League's American Division last night when he picked up a goal and an assist in Black Hawks' important 4-1 victory over Canadiens. The two points gave him a total of forty-one, or six less than the Canadian Division leader, Gordon Drillon, of Toronto. Only other member of the "big seven" to gain was George Mantha, who assisted in Canadiens' lone goal to enter a fourth-place tie with Cecil Dillon, of Rangers.

At the Theatres

ONE-THIRD OF PICTURE IS FILMED IN COLOR

One-third of the picture, "Pagliacci," starring Richard Tauber, and which will start on Monday at the Plaza Theatre, is filmed in color, and these sequences are said to be some of the most beautiful ever seen on the screen.

Steffi Duna, the Hollywood star who rose to fame in "La Cucaracha" and "Devil's Pirate," both color films, is Tauber's leading lady.

In the difficult task of adapting the opera to the requirements of the screen, Karl Grune is said to have employed an entirely new technique. Opera lovers will be pleased to hear that Leoncavallo's music has been retained in its entirety, mostly as background music.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Atlas—Wallace Beery in "The Bad Man of Brimstone."
Capitol—"The Big Broadcast of 1938," starring W. C. Fields.
Columbia—Bob Allen in "Reckless Ranger."
Dominion—Bob Burns in "Radio City Revels."
Oak Bay—Warner Baxter in Walter Wanger's "Vogues of 1938."
Plaza—"The Three Godfathers," starring Chester Morris.

On the Stage

Empire—"Quinney's."

ATLAS THEATRE—Mirroring civilization's march on America's savage last frontier, "The Bad Man of Brimstone," which will end today at the Atlas, brings to the screen an epic romance of the old West, with Wallace Beery as "Trigger" Bill, his greatest role since his memorable "Viva Villa."

CAPITOL THEATRE—W. C. Fields plays the riotous role of a trouble-maker de luxe in "The Big Broadcast of 1938," which will end today at the Capitol Theatre. Kirsten Flagstad and Shep Fields and his Rippling Rhythm Orchestra contribute specialties.

OAK BAY THEATRE—The Walter Wanger Models, who faced the motion picture camera for the first time in "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938," the technicolor musical which stars Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett, and will end today at the Oak Bay Theatre, are paradoxically the most photographed girls in the world.

DOMINION THEATRE—Comedy, music and romance are woven together with an ingenious plot in "Radio City Revels," with Bob Burns, Jack Oakie, Kenny Baker, Ann Miller, Victor Moore, Milton Berle, Helen Broderick and other favorites, and which is now at the Dominion Theatre.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Bob Allen, hero of the old Wild West, plays a Texas Ranger in his latest picture, "Reckless Ranger," which will end today at the Columbia Theatre. Louise Small, "Miss America" of 1934, appears opposite Allen in the leading feminine role.

PLAZA THEATRE—Three "Bad Men" who sacrifice their lives to save the life of a tiny child forms the core of "The Three Godfathers," which will end today at the Plaza Theatre. The production, filmed on location in the Mojave Desert, is based on Peter B. Kyne's widely-read novel of the same name.

Stock List Weak In Timid Market On Wall Street

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP).—The stock market occasionally had quiet rallies today, but selling of steels in the final few minutes took the starch out of the list.

At the beginning of the concluding hour early declines running to two or more points had been substantially reduced or cancelled, but the downswing was resumed when advices from Vienna reported German troops had crossed the Austrian border, thus reviving fears of a military flare-up that could unsettle world markets.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was down .8 of a point at 42.2. The rail composite hit a new bottom since 1933 and that for the utilities touched a 3-year-low. The turnover totalling 769,950 shares compared with 455,440 yesterday.

Wheat Futures Are Given Boost

WINNIPEG, March 11 (AP).—German troops marching toward Vienna sent buyers of all sources into the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today checking 1938's greatest wheat slump which kept prices at their lowest level since November.

Futures closed 1 7-8 to 1 1-4 cents higher, May at $1.20 3-8, July $1.11 3-8 to $1.11 1-2 and October 93 1-8 cents.

A minor export business developed, with sales of Canadian wheat estimated at about 100,000 bushels for Atlantic shipment.

Chicago moved higher. Liverpool slumped to record lows and Buenos Aires dipped 1 1-8 to 1 3-4 cents at noon.

Liverpool's decline of 5-8 to 7-8d was due to poor demand for actual wheat.

Cash wheat demand continued good, with spreads generally unchanged. Nos. 1 and 2 Northern closed at 16 1-2 and 11 cents premium above May future. Volume of business was small.

Coarse grains closed with oats 1-4 to 3-8 higher, barley 5-8 higher to unchanged, flax 1 1-8 to 1 1-4 lower and rye 1 3-4 to 1 5-8 cents lower.

What's Doing on the Local Retail Produce Market

A car of California grapefruit and half a car of lemons were received yesterday on wholesale row. California lettuce prices, which have been high for the last few weeks, are expected to decrease slightly.

A carload of Okanagan apples, consisting of McIntosh Reds, Delicious and Roman Beauties came in yesterday. These apples are of excellent quality and are selling rapidly.

The first shipment of Washington spinach came in yesterday. All future shipments will come from there. Both Florida and Mexican tomatoes are on the market. The Mexican variety is slightly lower in price.

There is a small amount of hothouse rhubarb on the market and also hothouse cucumbers, which are selling very well. A shipment of Australian onions arrived last night.

Consolidation Report Received

Duncan School Board Refers Question to Finance Committee for Further Examination

DUNCAN, March 11.—The Duncan Consolidated School Board at Wednesday's meeting received a report from the special committee appointed to look into the question of the proposed consolidation of Koksilah and other rural schools with the Duncan Consolidated School. The report dealt with the necessary capital expenditure involved, together with added costs of transportation and the distribution of other expenses. The report was referred to the finance committee for further investigation.

The secretary of the British Columbia Committee on Radio in the Schools wrote asking the board's co-operation in connection with a ten weeks' experimental broadcast from station CBR, Vancouver, of daily programmes suitable for school use. The board will place the necessary radio equipment in the schools during the experiment.

Trustees Smythe and Maitland will look into and report on the possibility of adding to the school property in the immediate vicinity of the present schools.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

DOES THE WEATHER AFFECT YOUR HEALTH?

A physician with an extensive hospital practice both in private and public ward patients stated that at one time he much disliked visiting his rheumatic patients during cool damp weather, as practically all of them would be feeling "low." He later found that other patients besides those afflicted with rheumatism felt worse on the damp days.

It was Chesterfield who said that an attack of indigestion, a sleepless night and a rainy morning could make a coward of a man who might otherwise have been a hero.

What about weather? Does the weather have any effects on the body?

Dr. J. Kuhman in an article in The Journal of the American Medical Association taken from a Leipzig medical journal says: "Everyday experiences show that noticeable reactions of the human organism takes place only in case of weather changes. The manner in which weather changes influence the body or body processes is extremely complicated. A part of the effect of weather changes on the body—drastic changes of the moisture in the air, temperature and rate at which the wind blows—can be explained by the sudden demand on the body processes that regulate the body's temperature. In individuals sensitive to weather changes however, there are other body processes affected besides temperature. Sensitive persons may even feel changes in the weather in advance.

"The weather changes seem to affect that part of the nervous system not under control of the will, such as the beating of the heart, breathing and digestion. Children and slender adults are often irritable and restless in cold and damp weather, but drowsy and sleepy during a warm spell.

"The weather in these sensitive individuals affects the blood pressure, the rate at which body processes work and also affects or changes the chemistry of the blood itself."

The knowledge, then, that weather changes affect the body processes in weather-sensitive individuals should make us more patient with them. It should also help these individuals to understand that as the weather changes affect the body processes, they must expect to have some bad days.

LITTLE HERO

Little Frank paid his first visit to church with his mother one Sunday. Sitting in the pew when the collection was being taken, he noticed his mother hastily searching her purse.

"What's the matter, mum," he asked, "ain't you got a penny?"

"No," she said, "I can't seem to find any change."

"Here, take mine," said Frank. "I'll hide under the seat."

LIFE'S LIKE THAT - By Fred Neher

"It's for Disturbing the Peace Last Night"

Jane Dixon Says:

TODAY'S PROBLEMS: A DIVORCED WOMAN IS AFRAID HER HAPPINESS HAS COME TO AN END BECAUSE THE FAMILY OF HER FIANCE ARE OPPOSED TO HER—A GIRL SEEMS UNABLE TO REALIZE THAT A CERTAIN MAN'S LOVE FOR HER HAS COOLED, EVEN THOUGH HE ASKS HER TO RETURN HIS LETTERS—A YOUNG MAN IS A TRIFLE EMBARRASSED BECAUSE HIS GIRL FRIEND ANNOUNCED THEIR ENGAGEMENT BEFORE HE PROPOSED—THE PROBLEM OF THE PURSUING WOMAN

There is no problem so difficult that time cannot settle it.

To have it settled your way, you have to get in and give time all the help you have to offer.

Maxine. The opposition of the man's family to your marriage is—for the present, at least—a handicap, not an end to your happiness. Why? Because the opposition is built on an unsound basis. You have been married before, unhappily. You are a divorced woman. You have a little son you adore. The man you love, and who loves you, includes your son in that love. Well, Maxine, what's wrong with that setup? The two of you start with love and a son. If you can't find happiness with such a good start you are—but maybe I'd better not say.

Hannah K. The young man has asked you to return his letters which he knows you have saved in a jewel box. He has "changed." He "breaks dates." What should you do? Return his letters. What benefit would they be to you? Unless you wanted to take legal action which, in the opinion of this writer, could gain you nothing except a few cold dollars and a pooh-pooh from every other worthwhile man you might meet. Face facts. When a man asks you to return his love letters he is through with love, as far as you are concerned.

R.K.T. You told the girl you think a lot of her. You did not ask her to marry you. She seems to take your expression of affection as a proposal of marriage and has told all your friends you are engaged. You do not know whether you love her enough to marry her, ever. She is a fine girl and you dislike to embarrass her, but you are in no position at present to ask any girl to be your wife. What to do?

Better embarrassment now than after the engagement has become an established and settled fact. Explain to her that you do not think it fair to her or to yourself to assume pledges you may not be able to keep. After all, the fault is hers, so you need have no hesitancy in righting a situation that might bring a very grave unhappiness to both of you.

F.D.T. Return the letters to the young woman, unopened, since she is so persistent, and continue to do so as long as she bombards you with them. If your approaching marriage to another young woman does not convince her you are not interested in her "courtship," it becomes necessary for you to seem cruel only to be kind.

BURGLAR

When you come to think of it, the burglar should be, personally and individually, an admirable chap.

His business develops initiative, resourcefulness, self-reliance, capacity in nocturnal emergency.

Economically, he effects a redistribution of much of the national wealth, thereby directly and indirectly justifying the enterprise of many of our most worthy citizens—including night watchmen, lawyers, safe manufacturers, steel fabricators and sometimes keepers of the scaffold.

It is said, and sometimes with some measure of heat, that the burglar takes unfair advantage; that considering his negligible overhead charges, unlimited market and insignificant competition, his methods for persuading customers are a little too forceful.

The grievance even extends to the accusation that he abuses rather than uses his abilities and his powers, that his vision is distorted, his whole aim and desire are to further his own interests at the expense of others, that he does not live a fifty-fifty life, does not give equal return for value received.

It is an old complaint, the burglar wants something for nothing, he wants to hog the game, and always—the end of the hog is the slaughter-house.

So it has been from the very beginning of things, when the burglar, as the name implies, was the town thief—from the Old French burg, town, and lere, thief.

"I suppose this is one of your cast-offs."—Bulletin, Sydney.

AN "R. AND G." FORD V-8 IS BEST

HERE IS THE REASON—WHEN WE PUT the "R. and G." label on a Ford V-8 of 1934 to 1937, it is a sure sign that the car is in first class condition and GUARANTEED. It means that factory-trained mechanics, working with precision equipment, have done a real mechanical job. It means you'll save on gas, oil and service. The "R. and G." guarantee on these cars gives you two-fold protection—an iron-clad, two-day, money-back guarantee, plus a fifty-fifty, thirty-day warranty against mechanical defects. We want you to see these "Renewed and Guaranteed" cars. Twenty-four cars to choose from.

Girl Guide Notes

SAANICH

The annual meeting of the North and South Saanich districts of Girl Guides was held recently at the home of Mrs. Gale, Mount Newton Crossroad. The divisional commissioner, Mrs. Gale, was in the chair, assisted by Mrs. Layard, district commissioner of North Saanich. The Viscountess Colville, district commissioner of South Saanich, is in England at present. Interesting reports were heard from the local associations of Sidney, Saltspring Island, James Island, South Saanich, Royal Oak, Cedar Hill and Colquitz, from the companies of Sidney, Saltspring, James Island, South Saanich, Royal Oak, Cedar Hill and Colquitz, and from the packs of Sidney, Saltspring Island and Colquitz. The divisional commissioner announced a training class for Guides to be held after Easter by Miss Ames, of Vancouver. Miss H. Leighton, district commissioner of West Victoria and Provincial camp adviser, then addressed the meeting. She stressed the need for Guiding to be kept more simple. Children now should be taught to do what the original Guide children did. They should learn self-reliance, self-control and obedience through games. Mrs. Gale thanked Miss Leighton for her thought-provoking words.
